HITLER PARLEY SWINGS SERBS CLOSER TO AXIS

Belgrade to Accept 'New Order.'

BERLIN, Feb. 14 (AP).—Jugo-Slavia was reported tonight to have moved a step closer to cooperation with the axis after a conference between leaders of state and Adolf Hitler at Berchtesgaden this afternoon. Beyond the bare statement that the Jugo-Slav premier, Dragisa Tsvetkovitch, and his foreign minister, Aleksandar Cincar-Markovitch, had talked "in friendly spirit" with Hitler and German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop, the authorities remained silent.

But from well informed quarters came declarations that Jugo-Slavia was approaching "vital decisions."

[These "vital decisions" were assumed to involve Jugo-Slavia's consideration of Axis requests for permission to move troops thru that country to threaten Greece.]

The Jugo-Slavs first visited Von Ribbentrop in his country home near Salzburg, informed persons said. After luncheon they proceeded to the Hitler conference, which lasted more than three hours and was interrupted briefly by tea.

Hear Serbs Will Submit.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 14 (AP).—A source close to Premier Dragisa Tsvetkovitch said tonight that Jugo-Slavia would accede to Adolf Hitler's wishes after the return to Belgrade of her statesmen from a conference with the Fuehrer. This country is expected to accept what were described as comparatively favorable terms in order to keep out of active warfare. These terms are expected to call for active participation by Jugo-Slavia in Hitler's "new order" for Europe.

Turkey today served notice thru her controlled press that she stands ready to fight in the Balkan crisis because she cannot be disinterested toward any German invasion of Bulgaria. A British military mission completed an inspection of Turkey's defenses on the Bulgarian frontier as Fuehrer Hitler stepped up the preparation of his Balkan army of 600,000 men in Rumania.

"No" to Axis Efforts.

Obviously inspired, the press declarations from Istanbul were interpreted in Balkan capitals as Turkey's "no" to axis efforts to win a pledge from Ankara to keep quiet in the event the Nazis make their expected thrust thru Bulgaria to get to Greece and the Mediterranean.

Activity of German troops in Rumania was given additional significance by the fact that the Danube now is open to navigation. Unseasonal warmth started traffic a month ahead of schedule.

In Bucharest, Rumania's capital, long lines of German military convoys rumbled thru the blacked out streets overnight.

TWO NAZIS MAKE A HORSE PAY OFF

THEY EAT IT!

BERLIN, Feb. 14 (AP).—A neighbor was testifying against a housewife accused of violating rationing laws. She said that "I saw big pieces of meat—sometimes whole legs of animals—hanging in the defendant's pantry." Police testified they found no meat in the house.

However, the defendant said: "There have been whole legs of animals in my pantry. My husband is extremely fond of horsemeat. He says that of horse is the greatest delicacy. Even in peacetime we always have horsemeat for Sunday dinner."

Quickly the judge delivered his verdict: "Not guilty." Horsemeat is not rationed.

LEAHY IS NAMED NEW NOTRE DAME FOOTBALL COACH

Frank Leahy, football coach at Boston college yesterday was appointed athletic director and head football coach at the University of Notre Dame. Leahy, whose 1940 Boston college team was undefeated and beat Tennessee in the Sugar bowl game at New Orleans, will sign a contract at Notre Dame today.

Leahy said in Boston he would bring his assistants to Notre Dame. [Details on sports pages.]

Raise First U. S. Flag Over Newfoundland at New Base

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Feb. 14 (AP).—The United States flag flew over Newfoundland soil today for the first time in the colony's history. It was raised yesterday at Argentia, on the defense base site leased by Britain to the United States, while troops of the American garrison looked on.

BARE GUARD'S ARREST RECORD IN HOME TOWN

Brandon Tells Plans for New Employees.

Robert Adams, one of the two employes of the St. Charles School for Boys held for murder in the fatal beating of a young inmate, has a police record which includes a dozen arrests for drunkenness and was once accused of cowardice in a state job.

Rodney H. Brandon, Chief of Police A. J. Welcz of Lanark, Carroll county, Adams' home town, disclosed Adams' police record last night. The charge of cowardice was made public by Rodney H. Brandon, state director of public welfare, who took it from Adams' record card in the welfare department's files.

"Adams was jailed or fined for drunken driving after several of these arrests," Welcz said. "He was arrested again last October when he beat up one of our policemen and was fined $25."

Charged with Cowardice.

Brandon reported the cowardice charge to Gov. Dwight H. Green. Adams quit his job as a guard at Manteno state hospital on short notice Aug. 31, 1939, "evidently in an endeavor to escape the danger of typhoid," Brandon said. A. L. Bowen, then state welfare head, made the following notation on Adams' card: "Should never be reemployed in this department as this action of cowardice was inexcusable."

"Despite this record," Brandon said, "in January, 1940, Adams was employed at St. Charles under sponsorship of W. R. Sherlock, Carroll county Democratic chairman."

Other developments in the case yesterday:

1. Brandon, acting on instructions of Gov. Green, served notice that the day of political appointees, such as Adams, is ended at St. Charles.

2. State's Attorney Charles G. Seidel of Kane county said he will call a special session of the grand jury early next week to hear evidence against Adams, who was a disciplinary case tag attendant at St. Charles, and the other accused slugs, William Laird, acting house officer.

3. Col. Frank D. Whipp, state superintendent of prisons, reported to Brandon that his investigation showed there had been considerable drinking among employes at the institution.

Governor Takes Hand.

Gov. Green directed Brandon to make a personnel study of the St. Charles school and to recruit students from senior sociology classes at the state's leading universities for training as "house fathers" in the 25 disciplinary cottages at St. Charles.

"In accordance with the governor's order," Brandon said, "I will ask the presidents of the University of Illinois, Northwestern, Loyola, and De Paul universities to interest 25 to 30 of their seniors in sociology in this work."

"These young men will be given night courses by Dr. Harrison Dobbs of the University of Chicago."

Col. Whipp, in a report to Brandon on the fatal beating, said: "There is no doubt it is murder."

Whipp announced the suspension of James O'Grady, supervising officer, who had assigned Adams to duty the day of the beating. John Armstrong, chief disciplinary officer, who saw the beating, was suspended also, but was reinstated later in the day.

Victim Young Negro Thief.

The victim of the attack was James Williams, 16 years old, colored, of 1260 Jefferson street. Williams, who was committed to the school in January, 1940, as an auto thief, was sent to the disciplinary cottage for stealing a bottle of ink.

On Wednesday, Williams, according to other inmates, complained of being ill while working on a coal pile. Adams slapped him. Later Adams beat him with a wooden paddle and a pinewood club in the cottage basement shower and dressing rooms. When Williams fought back, Laird hit him on the head with a brass nozzle. Both men have admitted beating Williams.

Amid a World of Woe Comes Helping Hand

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 14 (Special).—Alma M. Lloyd and her year old son were ready tonight to start home to Soda Springs, Idaho, convinced that human kindness is very real indeed.

A month ago the infant, Alma Scott Lloyd, swallowed a peanut which lodged in his right lung. His father, a 26 year old farmer, drove to Salt Lake City, but efforts to extract the kernel were unavailing. Discouraged, the father drove home with the child again.

Wife Leaves Hospital.

"My wife just got out of the hospital two weeks before the baby came down sick," Lloyd said. "I couldn't bear the baby's coughing, but I didn't know what to do."

Lloyd's brother helped him borrow $114 after the town physician, Dr. Evans Knackley, said that the man to fix up young Alma Scott was Dr. Chevalier Jackson, head of the bronchoscopic clinic at Temple University in Philadelphia. Dr. Knackley had trained under Dr. Jackson.

When Lloyd and the baby started the drive to Salt Lake City airport, 200 miles away, the child's condition was alarming. Two abscesses had developed in the lung.

United Air Lines helped out by diverting its New York plane off the regular course for a stop at Philadelphia. Dr. Jackson received the baby at the hospital and operated at once.

He reported that young Alma Scott would get well, but that he would have to stay quiet for a few days.

Reduced to One Meal a Day.

The father, after spending most of the $114 he had scraped together for air passage, was reduced to one meal a day during the wait, even to the day of the beating. John Armstrong, chief disciplinary officer, who saw the beating, was suspended also, but was reinstated later in the day.

ARREST BRIDGES IN DEPORTATION ACTION IN WEST

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 14 (Special).—Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. labor head, was arrested today on a department of justice warrant issued in connection with new deportation proceedings instituted against him.

The Australian alien, who was white-washed of communist connections in a labor department hearing in 1939, is again charged with having been a member of an organization advocating overthrow of the United States government.

The warrant was served in the office of Bridge's attorney, Richard I. Gladstein. The defendant then was released on $3,000 cash bond pending hearings scheduled to begin March 31.

In announcing on Wednesday that Bridges were to be started, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson said in Washington, D. C., that they were based on new and additional evidence obtained by the federal bureau of investigation.

M. P. Urges That London Raise Pigs in Public Parks

LONDON, Feb. 14.—A proposal that London municipalities turn farmers and raise pigs in their public parks was advanced today by R. C. Morrison, Labor member of parliament for North Tottenham. Altho Morrison originally advocated collection of kitchen scraps for conversion into pig food, he said it would be more economical to "bring the pigs to the food, instead of taking the food to the pigs."

Senator Walsh Will Help Foes of Dictator Bill

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—Senate opponents of President Roosevelt's war dictatorship bill agreed at a strategy meeting this afternoon to support an amendment by Senator David I. Walsh (D., Mass.), chairman of the naval affairs committee, for bidding the President to lend, lease, or give away any part of the United States navy to Great Britain or any other country.

Senator Walsh's presence at the opposition meeting in the office of Senator Hiram Johnson (R., Cal.) was the first public evidence of his intention to fight the dictatorship bill. Opposition leaders were encouraged by his agreement to sponsor the amendment, because of his prestige and influence as chairman of the naval affairs committee.

Other Restrictions Approved.

The opposition leaders also agreed to support various other restrictive amendments to the dictator bill, on which senate debate will begin Monday. Senator Bennett C. Clark (D., Mo.), a member of the foreign relations committee, was designated to make the opening speech for the opposition. Leading off for the administration will be Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, who will be followed by Senator Walter F. George (D., Ga.), chairman of the foreign relations committee and manager of the bill.

Asked about the controversy between Wendell Willkie and Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox regarding the wisdom of releasing more destroyers to Great Britain, Senator Walsh said he agreed with Knox that the navy could spare no more destroyers.

"If the secretary of the navy doesn't know what the needs of the navy are, who does?" Walsh remarked.

"I'm an American!"

When Senator Johnson was asked what he thought about Willkie's proposal to give Great Britain "five or ten destroyers a month," he snapped: "I'm an American!"

Senator Walsh's amendment is expected to receive the support of most but not all of the members of the naval affairs committee. The Illinois member of that committee is Senator Scott W. Lucas (D.), a supporter of the dictator bill. The other Illinois senator, Wayland Brooks (R.), attended the opposition meeting in Senator Johnson's office.

Other senators who attended the meeting were John Thomas (R., Ind.), Robert M. La Follette (F., Wis.), Henrik Shipstead (R., Minn.), Guy M. Gillette (D., Ia.), Robert A. Taft (R., O.), Raymond E. Willis (R., Ind.), D. Worth Clark (D., Ia.), Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), Arthur Capper (R., Kas.), Burton K. Wheeler (D., Mont.), Gerald P. Nye (R., N. D.), William J. Bulow (D., S. D.), and Charles W. Tobey (R., N. H.).

Asks "Candid Statement."

Senator Tobey has been counted by the administration leaders as a probable supporter of the bill. Before going to the meeting Tobey sent a telegram to the White House demanding that President Roosevelt give congress and the American people "a candid statement as to his intentions regarding the transfer of United States naval vessels to other countries."

Senator Tobey said the effect of the Willkie-Knox controversy was one of befuddlement because both parties to it had spoken after conferring with President Roosevelt. The situation was befuddled still more, Tobey said, when White House Secretary Stephen Early declared yesterday that President, Willkie, and Knox saw eye to eye on the destroyer question.

Quotation from Telegram.

"The people of the country are becoming divided by these conflicting statements and in the interest of national unity as well as the interest of our national security I urge you to make clear to the people and to the congress your intentions in the matter," said Tobey's telegram to the President.

U. S. DEBT GOING TO 100 BILLIONS, SENATORS WARN

$65,000,000,000 Top Voted for Present.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—Debate on the administration bill to increase the statutory national debt limit to $5 billion dollars, which the senate passed this afternoon without a record vote, revealed that American assistance to foreign countries under President Roosevelt's war dictatorship bill is expected to cost 7 billion dollars between now and July 1, 1942.

[Seven billion dollars would have been far more than enough to cover all federal expenditures for any year in the last 20 up until 1933, when the Roosevelt spending campaign went into high gear. In 1933 total federal spending was 7 billion 105 millions, and since then has increased.]

The debt limit bill, which would subject all future issues of government obligations to federal taxation, was returned to the house of representatives for its consideration of minor senate amendments.

The dictator bill, particularly its financial implications, dominated senate debate on the debt limit measure. Reported by the foreign relations committee yesterday, the dictator bill will be laid before the senate for formal consideration on Monday.

Warning from Both Sides.

Senator Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.), a supporter of the dictator bill, and Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D., Mont.), one of its leading opponents, both predicted that the national debt will reach 100 billion dollars by the middle of 1943 or earlier. Both warned that the present spending program is fraught with danger of uncontrolled inflation, financial collapse, chaos, and dictatorship.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) elicited from his colleagues, Senator Prentiss M. Brown (D., Mich.), manager of the bill to boost the debt limit from 49 to 65 billion dollars, the admission that 7 billion dollars is the anticipated probable cost of Mr. Roosevelt's program to aid Great Britain and other foreign countries between now and July 1, 1942.

Brown Gives Explanation.

Senator Brown explained that national defense expenditures thus far appropriated or budgeted for the fiscal years 1941 and 1942 are expected to reach 28 billion, 480 million dollars by July 1, 1942. According to treasury department estimates, he said, there will be outstanding on July 1, 1942, direct obligations of the United States government in the amount of 58 billion dollars.

"If we raise the limit to 65 billion dollars, there will be a leeway of approximately 7 billion dollars," he said.

Senator Vandenberg observed, and Senator Brown agreed, that the 38 billion dollar figure included nothing for any deficits resulting from the proposed assistance of Great Britain and other warring countries.

"That would indicate that it is the senator's judgment and the judgment of the secretary [Henry Morgenthau, secretary of the treasury] that the expenditures under the lend-lease bill would run in the neighborhood of 7 billion dollars between now and July 1, 1942," commented Senator Vandenberg.

It's "Reasonably Accurate."

"The senator can draw that conclusion from the statements which the secretary made, and I would say that it is probably reasonably accurate," Senator Brown replied. He said he did not wish to be quoted, however, as stating that Morgenthau came to that conclusion. Morgenthau, testifying before the finance committee on the debt limit bill, refused to estimate the cost of aid to Britain and other foreign countries.

Questioning of Senator Brown by Senator Robert A. Taft (R., O.) indicated that the debt limit will have to be boosted beyond 65 billion dollars before July 1, 1942, if aid to Britain and other foreign countries costs 7 billion dollars by that date.

Senator Taft explained that the estimate of 58 billion dollars as the size of the national debt on July 1, 1942, did not include 2 billion, 450 million dollars of supplemental expenditures requested by the budget bureau since the budget for the next fiscal year was submitted, and that additional supplemental estimates of approximately 1 billion dollars are contemplated during the present session of congress.

Senator Brown, who was flanked by treasury department experts, agreed that Senator Taft was correct.

A Toronto Editorial.

Senator Wheeler took the floor to comment on editorial from a Toronto newspaper. In showing that Canada, a member of the British commonwealth of nations, is neither lending nor giving war materials to Great Britain, the editorial explained, pays cash for her purchases in Canada.

"Here it is proposed to pass a bill which will permit the President if he sees fit not only to lease and lend but to give to Great Britain any part of our army or anything else so long as he deems it necessary for defense," said Senator Wheeler. "Yet neither the Canadian government, the Australian government, the Indian government, the government of New Zealand, nor of any other colony of Great Britain has gone as far as the United States proposes to go in this legislation."

"Yet we contend we are not a colony of Great Britain. Here are countries that are directly affected and directly involved in the war which are not giving up their assets; they are not even loaning, to say nothing of giving, to England, but are insisting that we be put upon the barrel top. And we claim that we got our independence in 1776!"

100 Billion Limit.
"I shall vote for the pending bill [the debt limit bill], but if the bill which we start to consider next week is passed, the 65 billion dollar limit will not be the limit. The next year congress will be asked to raise the limit to 100 billion dollars."

Wheeler asked how far senators supposed this country could go into debt without a collapse. He warned that the advent of Mussolini in Italy and Hitler in Germany was preceded by inflation and financial collapse.

Senator Byrd explained that beginning with 1930 there have been 11 consecutive federal deficits and that the 12th, to be incurred in the next fiscal year, will be the largest in history, bringing the aggregate deficit to 12 years to 45 billion dollars. In addition to the direct national debt, he added, the government guaranteed obligations of some 30 government corporations from a 6 billion dollar contingent liability.

Warns It's Going Up.

"It is likely and probable that this contingent liability by July 1, 1942, will reach 10 billion dollars, making an overall public debt of at least 75 billion dollars at the end of the next fiscal year," Senator Byrd warned. "A deficit of 10 billion dollars this year may well be 20 billion next year, and even more the following year, because the momentum of defense spending cannot reach its stride until a year or more from now. This means an overall federal debt of 100 billion perhaps by July 1, 1943, and certainly within that fiscal year."

"We have heard much in late years of planned economy, which has meant, so far, plans to spend more government money. We hear little, however, of any plan to preserve the financial integrity of our nation and enable us to meet the colossal burdens which we are now undertaking to carry and to keep our resources from being used in times of distress the needy of our own land."

"A Colossal Burden."

"Whatever may be our opinion as to the wisdom or the danger of the proposed lease-lend bill now under consideration, I think it should be realized that the United States of America is assuming a financial burden of the most colossal magnitude, and we are doing this at a time—after 12 years of peacetime deficits—when no effort has been made to reduce the nondefense spending of our nation, and when we have a debt 50 times as large as our indebtedness at the beginning of the last war."

"No estimate has been given to congress as to the financial cost of this venture into international affairs. I realize that no estimate can be given, but I venture the assertion that the last and final cost will be far in excess of any prediction or estimate that can be made today."

Besides increasing the debt limit to 65 billion dollars and subjecting all future issues of government obligations to federal taxation, the bill passed today authorizes the secretary of the treasury to issue treasury savings certificates in place of the war savings certificates now authorized by law, and authorizes the postmaster general to issue postal savings certificates in any denomination (the present limit is $1).

War savings certificates would be in much lower brackets than those now issued by the treasury. They would begin at $5 par value and range up to $25. They would also bear a higher rate of interest in order to encourage purchase by individuals. Certificates now are largely taken by banks and other big buyers.

HOME IS LOOTED

OF $5,800 GEMS

AND $1,900 CASH

The home of Malcolm L. Buckley at 4542 Beacon street was burglarized last night and $1,900 in jewelry valued at $5,800 taken while the housekeeper, Mrs. Genevieve Rainey, 57 years old, and Walter Wright, colored houseman, were sleeping in their rooms.

Buckley, a heating estimator for the Phillips Gessow company, 32 West Hubbard street, and his wife, Lorraine, were visiting a friend in a hospital at Palatine. They discovered on their return that Mrs. Buckley's room had been ransacked.

The cash, drawn Thursday from the bank in prospect of a trip to Florida tomorrow, was taken from a dresser drawer. The burglar is believed to have climbed a tree and entered thru Mrs. Buckley's second floor window. Wright was taken into custody by the Town Hall police for questioning.

SECRET HEARING ON SAMOAN AIR BASE IS CALLED

Stark to Testify Before House Committee.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—The house naval affairs committee decided today to hear secret testimony from Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, on the administration's request for $3,000,000 to establish an air base on the island of Samoa, southwest anchor point of this country's far flung Pacific outposts. The committee will hear Stark in executive session tomorrow.

Hearings today were the first on the new $998,392,932 program for additional ship construction and installation of bombproof shelters and other defenses on various island outposts which was laid before congress by President Roosevelt earlier in the week.

Informed sources say this is the first time any military development has been proposed for Samoa, which is in a direct line between Hawaii and Australia. It is said to have one of the finest natural harbors in the south Pacific.

Admiral Includes Island.

Capt. Harry W. Hill, representing Stark at today's hearings, explained that the island was regarded as of little strategic importance until the importance of airplanes in defense calculations became recognized. He said Admiral Stark is responsible for the inclusion of the Samoa base in the new program.

The bill carrying the Samoan project also carries a $4,700,000 authorization for improvements on the island of Guam. Possible revival of congressional protests against a move to fortify that tiny possession 1,800 miles from Tokyo, was seen when the President submitted his program. On two other occasions congress has refused to appropriate funds for the project on the ground that fortification of the island would be a needless affront to Japan.

Cuban Base Funds Asked.

The President has asked also for $5,747,500 to establish fleet operation facilities and bombproof shelters at the Guantanamo, Cuba, naval base. Establishment of submarine facilities at Kodiak Island, Alaska, and at Midway Island in the Pacific also are being sought under the program.

Before recessing this afternoon, the committee ordered an amendment prepared to increase the authorization for improvements at the Mare Island, Cal., navy yard from $505,000 to $1,050,000.

The committee also reported a bill authorizing the government to sell or loan obsolete naval equipment to the Philippine government.

Representative Warren Magnuson (D., Wash.), sponsor of the bill, said the first item to be sold or loaned to the Philippines would be repaired or obsolete torpedoes for use in the Philippine gunboat squadron.

CAMP FORREST

Col. Horace E. Thornton, chief of staff of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, and the commanding officers of two regiments of the division arrived at Camp Forrest, near Tullahoma, Tenn., early yesterday on an inspection trip. They will spend several days in the camp, looking over the accommodations which are being prepared for the division.

Col. Thornton's companions were Col. Richard Smykal, commander of the 108th quartermaster regiment, and Col. Karl Hobart, commander of the 108th engineer regiment. Col. Smykal's regiment will be the first to entrain for Camp Forrest, and will arrive there March 10.

The 33d division is now short of its authorized strength of 13,000, and invites enlistments before its rolls close Monday. Lieut. Col. Louis A. Boening, assistant state director of selective service, yesterday urged eligible young men to "give full consideration to the many advantages to be found thru enlistment in the Guard."

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—A civilian official of the war department today told the house military affairs committee that he is receiving a share of the profits of Sanderson & Porter of New York, a firm in which he is a partner, which is constructing 11 million dollar shell loading plant at Elwood, Ill.

The official, Francis Blossom, 70 years old, is a member of the department board which passes upon the qualifications of defense contractors. He told the house committee that he had not participated in determination of the contract award on the Elwood project. However, Representative Andrew J. May (D., Ky.), chairman of the committee, promised a "full investigation."

Two Others Accused.

The committee has been investigating recent charges by Senator Harry S. Truman (D., Mo.) that Blossom and two other war department officials concerned with contract awards have connections with firms receiving government contracts. The department board in charge of these awards is authorized to examine the qualifications of contractors seeking jobs on a cost-plus-fixed fee basis and then nominates the firms which are to negotiate with the government on the projects.

Blossom told the house committee that the contract to Sanderson & Porter on the shell-loading project was handled directly by the war department's construction division and that his board had not participated in the negotiations. He said he had advised Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson that he could not join in deliberations that concerned his firm.

Fee Set at $1,114,000.

Representative Paul J. Kilday (D., Tex.) remarked that he was advised by the war department that the engineering firm's fee on the Elwood project was $1,114,000 and that on the basis of Blossom's statement of his share in Sanderson & Porter profits he would receive approximately $100,000 of the fee.

Blossom said he would accept Kilday's arithmetic on the matter but that he would be surprised if the fee were that large. He contended that he had no knowledge of the firm's fee on the job.

Blossom said that he was paid by the war department at the rate of $6,500 annually, but that he has been turning over this money "to a sick man."

Kilday raised the point of whether it was not illegal for Blossom to accept a salary from the war department at the same time he was accepting a share in the contract. The committee went into executive session to consider the matter.

GEN. DRUM TELLS MANEUVER PLAN FOR FIRST ARMY

Equipment Shortage Has Lessened, He Says.

New York, Feb. 14 (Special).—Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commander of the 1st army today announced plans for the most comprehensive and exacting peacetime military maneuvers ever to be held in the United States. He also disclosed protective measures taken for the eastern seaboard from Maine to Florida. He said the army and navy have cooperated to guard the coast not only with a long line of 13 inch and 16 inch guns but also have laid mines.

Gen. Drum said that the commands of two of the bases acquired from the British-Newfoundland and Bermuda—have central headquarters here and are a main consideration in the organization of the 1st army field force.

Equipment Situation Better.
The territory of the 1st army extends from Maine to Georgia, and equipment for the men now in training in that vast area is being supplied in satisfactory numbers, Gen. Drum said.

The 1st army now has enough equipment, said Gen. Drum, to train all the various specialists needed, but there is not enough equipment for an army to go into combat. When the army's training maneuvers are held in the late summer or fall he declared, there will be no use of iron pipes to simulate machine guns—other such substitutes as was the case last summer.

Gen. Drum said the maneuvers probably will be held in the south with about 350,000 men taking part. The army, in its present state of training he said, could not function as a combat force.

"I want to warn you," he emphasized, "that armies cannot go into combat without this training."

Says Training Improves.

He referred to men called to the army under the draft act as "trainees" and said they would have a much better idea of their duties than the men who were sent to France in the first world war.

"Certainly," he declared, "they will have much better training."

The training schedule during the maneuvers this year will be much more strenuous than last year, Gen. Drum said. Men and officers will be required to be on the move more, both night and day.

He stressed the necessity for the training of individual soldiers before they can be fully qualified to be moved effectively in brigades and divisions. That individual training, he said, must last 26 weeks so that all the individuals so trained can work together as a team. He said he hoped that by the time the maneuvers begin each man will have reached that point of efficiency. Only when they did reach that point, he said, would they be qualified for combat service.

Speaking of equipment he said, it varies from 100 per cent to no more than 30 per cent in some units.

Leaves Room on Schedule and Plunges to His Death

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 14 (Special).—Every day Charles H. Larson, 52 years old, who lived on the income from a legacy, would leave his room at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 a. m., spend the day taking long walks, and return at 5 p. m. At the "Y" they said they could see clocks by Larson's routine. Today Larson left his fifth floor room promptly at 8 o'clock, climbed a fire escape to the roof and plunged off to his death.

U. S. COUNSELOR IN LONDON GETS MINISTER RANK

Washington, D. C., 14 (Special).—Herschel V. Johnson, a career diplomat and counselor of the American embassy in London, today was given the honorary rank of minister.

This places the office on the same rating as the office of counselor in the British embassy here, a post occupied by N. M. Butler, who also holds ministerial rank.

Unlike the British, however, who have sent Sir Gerald Campbell here in addition as a minister, indications today were said to be that President Roosevelt is not planning to send a special minister to London to serve with John G. Winant, the newly designated ambassador.

R. A. BARD NAMED AS ASSISTANT TO NAVY SECRETARY

Chicago Business Man to Succeed Compton.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (P).—Ralph Austin Bard of Chicago, a Republican and a long time friend of Secretary Knox, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to succeed Lewis Compton as assistant secretary of the navy.

Announcing this today, the White House disclosed that Compton had resigned Jan. 10. He has been ill for some time. Compton became assistant secretary during the administration of former Secretary Charles Edison, who is now governor of New Jersey.

Bard, born in Cleveland July 28, 1884, attended Princeton university and began his business career as a salesman for Everez company, dealers in investment securities at Chicago. He joined in the pro-Willkie telegraphic campaign before the Philadelphia convention and was active there in Willkie's behalf.

He is now president of Bard & Co. of Chicago and of the Wahl, Everez & Pen company. He is also a director of the American Shipbuilding company and the Libby-Owens-Ford Glass company.

AMERICAN MILITARY OBSERVER ORDERED TO AFRICAN STATION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (P).—The war department assigned today a military observer to South Africa, presumably because of the fast developing British campaign against the Italians on the African continent.

Lieut. Col. Breckinridge A. Day, an instructor at the field artillery school, Fort Sill, Okla., was ordered to temporary duty at the war department about March 1, with instructions to proceed later from New York to Pretoria, Transvaal, Union of South Africa, to be military attaché. Col. Day is 48, a native of Missouri, and a 1913 graduate of Yale.

In another move to assure an adequate flow of technical information from strategic war areas, Maj. John W. Wofford, now on duty at Fort Custer, Mich., was named military attaché at Dublin, Ireland. He will relieve Brig. Gen. Raymond E. Lee, military attaché at London, who hitherto has included the Irish Free State in his sphere.

possible embarrassment" in case "the secretary of the navy may want one of his own choice appointed to the position I now hold."

In his reply, dated Feb. 13, the President praised Compton's service. "As reluctant as I am to let you leave Washington," the President wrote, "I am glad to know that you are returning to your old chief—my old friend, Charlie Edison, now governor of New Jersey."

Compton has been in the naval hospital here for about a month, receiving treatment for a gastric disturbance.

NOTIFIED OF CHOICE.

Ralph A. Bard, president of a Chicago investment house bearing his name, said yesterday that he had received notification of his appointment.

Blast at Smelting Plant

Smashes Many Windows

An explosion on the grounds of the Goldsmith Brothers Smelting and Refining company, 1300 West 99th street, blew out scores of windows in company buildings and nearby residences yesterday. No one was injured. The blast occurred when a metal slag pot, which had been moved to a cooling area outside the lead smelting department, tipped over and spilled the molten slag into a pool of water.

AUSTRALIA SET FOR ANY CRISIS, LEADERS ASSERT

Chiefs of Armed Services Meet with Cabinet.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Australian government announced today after a war council meeting that this commonwealth and her people "can and will face any crisis calmly and with deliberate purpose."

With Australian chiefs of staff and Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, Britain's far eastern commander in chief, the war cabinet considered a Pacific situation which only yesterday the government described as of the "utmost gravity."

Today there was a calmer atmosphere. Acting Prime Minister A. W. Fadden said the war cabinet reviewed the Australian defense program in the light of the latest international news. He asserted the warning of yesterday was issued so that every one would realize how necessary it was to place the nation's interests first.

Survey of All Resources.

The conferees decided to survey all Australian resources to insure that all are used advantageously in the war effort. John Curtin, leader of the Labor opposition, expressed agreement with the government's course.

All the ministers appeared more cheerful when they left the meeting. Informal sources said their latest advice showed, at least, that the situation was no worse.

Japan's consul general, moreover, took it upon himself to issue a statement saying he could see nothing to justify "the alarming news" reflected in yesterday's press.

Japs Patrol Indo Coast.

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Feb. 14 (AP)—Japanese reporters here declared today that Japanese warships were patrolling the entire French Indo-China coast and also the Thailand (Siam) shore as far west as Bangkok. These sources, whose assertions were not confirmed in any official quarter, said the patrol was set up "as a precaution against possible developments in these waters."

Japan is expecting Germany to attempt an invasion of England, the correspondents went on, whereupon they added "Japan will move against Anglo-American interests in the Orient and the Dutch East Indies, first attacking Singapore."

Protests lodged by French authorities caused Japanese naval forces to abandon an attempt to land additional supplies for troops and airmen who arrived here earlier in the week.

Philippines Fear War.

MANILA, Feb. 14 (AP)—Preparations to cope with a possible war emergency were noted through the Philippines today. National assemblymen discussed the situation that would result should the islands become involved as a ward of the United States. Some said one of the first steps taken would be suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Dutch Vessel to Sail.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 15 Saturday (AP)—Countermmanding earlier orders directing the 7,083-ton Dutch liner Tjibadak to sail for Manila without unloading cargo and without passengers, the Netherlands government today ordered the vessel to accept passengers and resume normal schedule. The liner arrived yesterday from Japan and persons holding reservations were notified that their passages had been canceled for unexplained reasons.

BRITISH BOMBERS RAID GERMANY, INVASION PORTS

LONDON, Feb. 15, Saturday (AP)—The royal air force attacked "industrial targets" in the Ruhr valley in western Germany last night in an assault which continued almost until dawn, informed sources said today.

From Berlin came word that British bombers in large numbers attempted to attack military objectives in western Germany, but were frustrated by anti-aircraft fire. Informed German sources said that apartment houses were bombed and some civilians were killed.

Observers on the English south coast reported that German anti-aircraft guns on the opposite side of the channel put up a heavy barrage last evening, indicating an R.A.F. attack on the Nazi invasion ports.

The German air force, meanwhile, stepped up its overnight attacks on England, dropping numerous incendiary and explosive bombs on London and stabbing at the Midlands and the eastern counties. The government acknowledged the German attacks were "rather more than of late," but said they nevertheless failed to reach large proportions.

"Damage was done at several points, but was nowhere very heavy," a communique said. "Casualties were few."

VETERANS INVITE SEN. PEPPER TO DEBATE BROOKS

Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, ardent New Dealer, was invited yesterday to debate the war dictatorship bill with Wayland Brooks, Republican senator from Illinois, at a rally to be held Feb. 23 in the Chicago Civic Opera house. The invitation was extended in a telegram sent by Edward F. McGinnis, head of the Veterans' division of the Illinois America First committee.

The Veterans' division, sponsor of the rally, last week invited the two Illinois senators, Brooks and Scott W. Lucas, Democrat, to participate in the debate. Brooks accepted, but Lucas declined. A second telegram to Lucas, asking that he reconsider on the ground that citizens of Illinois were entitled to hear an expression of views on the war question by their two senators, went unanswered.

ROOSEVELT SEES NEW JAP ENVOY; TALK OF ACCORD

Ambassador from Tokio Presents Credentials.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 14—President Roosevelt today told the new Japanese ambassador, Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, that "there are developments in the relations between the United States and Japan which cause concern." The envoy pledged himself to do all in his power to "maintain the traditional friendship" between his nation and the United States.

The exchange of formal remarks took place when Ambassador Nomura called at the White House to present his credentials. Added significance was given the proceedings when it was noted that Secretary of State Hull accompanied the envoy to the executive offices. Usually a state department protocol officer is entrusted with the handling of such missions.

Envoy Makes Statement.

"His majesty the emperor of Japan, my august sovereign, has been graciously pleased to entrust me with the mission of representing him as ambassador to the United States of America," said the new envoy. "I wish to assure you that it is a source of real pleasure to me to be stationed in your great country, where I have a large number of friends, among whom I am happy to count you, Mr. President, as one of the oldest and closest."

"The recent developments in Japanese-American relations have unfortunately been such as to cause considerable concern on both sides of the ocean. It is needed now, more than ever, to bring about a better understanding of each other's position in order to secure the interests and well-being of our two nations, thereby preserving the peace of the Pacific and maintaining the traditional friendship between us."

Roosevelt Makes Reply.

"There are, as you have stated, developments in the relations between the United States and Japan which cause concern," replied Mr. Roosevelt. "I welcome your assurance that, in the interests of the traditional friendship between our two countries and the well-being of the American and the Japanese peoples, you are resolved to do all you can to bring about a better understanding. I am confident of your devotion to this objective, and I feel that your long associations with the American people specially qualify you for your mission."

Trade Treaty Believed Goal.

It is reported that Nomura's government has instructed him to make vigorous efforts toward a better understanding with the United States consistent with Japan's alliance with Germany and Italy and the insistence of the Japanese upon being the "stabilizing" power in East Asia.

Chief among his aims, it is understood, is the establishment of better trade relations with the United States and the negotiation of a new trade treaty with America.

N. U. Queen Chosen

Miss Hazel Miller, University of Illinois prom queen, was a guest at the Northwestern university junior prom last night.

Phyllis Anderson, a brunette 20 years old, was chosen last night at the Northwestern university junior prom in the Stevens hotel as Syllabus beauty queen. The Syllabus is the university's yearbook and the selection was made by Bert Lahr, comedian, after there was a preliminary deadlock between Miss Anderson and Jean Caldwell in selections made by Jack Benny and Fred Allen.

Miss Anderson, a senior in the school of liberal arts, is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Her home is in Joliet. Miss Caldwell, a sophomore member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, lives in Wooster, O. She and three other contestants were named attendants to the queen. They are Jeanne Betty Rothenberg, of Dayton, O.; Dorothy Olson of Evanston, and Shirley Kessler, of Chicago.

Miss Hazel Miller, of Yorkville, Kendall county, junior prom queen of the University of Illinois, and Miss Pat White, prom queen of the University of Wisconsin, were guests at the prom, which was attended by 800 couples.

BRITISH CHUTISTS WITH EXPLOSIVES CAPTURED—ITALY

Claims 'Invaders' Sought to Destroy Waterworks.

ROME, Feb. 14 (AP).—The capture of a group of heavily armed British parachutists said to have floated down thru the moonlight on southern Italy with the intention of dynamiting the regional waterworks and communications system was claimed today by the Italian high command.

They landed Monday night and early Tuesday morning, the high command reported, in the provinces of Calabria and Lucania, but all were captured "before they could cause the serious damage which they intended." The Apulian aqueduct is located in the southern Italian area near where the parachutists were reported to have been captured. It is the biggest in the world and supplies 2,577,000 Italians with drinking water.

Two Italians Killed.

How many Britons were taken into custody was not announced. The communiqué merely described them as "nuclei of parachutists armed with machine guns, hand grenades, and explosives." It was stated that in a clash during the capture an Italian civilian, police deputy and a citizen were killed.

The Rome radio, however, said specifically that 19 parachutists had been seized along with another group of untested size.

The radio said the British, carrying maps of the district, had taken over some farms in the area, preventing the peasants from giving an immediate alarm, in their attempt to "blow up and damage chiefly the hydraulic works built by the Fascist regime."

Chutist Breaks Leg.

One parachutist broke his leg in descending. It was stated, and was almost immediately captured by Italian police, having been "abandoned by the others."

"Soon," the account went on, "the alarm was given and the [other] parachutists, who had descended in a wooded district, were surrounded by the police and military. Eleven of them were soon captured while seven others were arrested some kilometers away. The latter used hand machine guns under the command of a British lieutenant, killing one Italian police agent and one Italian soldier."

"One carabinieri who remained alone compelled the seven to surrender. The other group of parachutists was captured soon afterward, and among them was one captain. All had uniforms of khaki, aviator helmets, and Italian money."

[In London, British military circles said they had no knowledge of such a landing. If it was made as announced, it was the first British application of a technique used widely by the Germans in conquering the Low Countries.]

Tell of Capturing Flyers.

Newspapers also told of the capture of four British flyers who were said to have bailed out of two planes which crashed in the zone where the saboteurs were reported caught.

These two planes fell Monday night or early Tuesday in bombing raids on or early Tuesday in bombing raids. Three members of the crew of one of the craft, which came down near Eboli, are imprisoned at Naples.

The second plane was brought down by anti-aircraft guns near San Nicola Varco. On Tuesday morning, according to newspaper accounts, a peasant appeared at the police headquarters of Capaccio Ascalo with a British pilot who had bailed out. The pilot was imprisoned at Agropoli.

"While my children were playing in the field at the foot of Mount Capaccio Vecchio," the peasant was quoted as telling the police, "I heard them shout. Running, I saw this parachutist, who immediately raised his hands and surrendered."

ROOSEVELT AID IN CHINA VISITS U. S. MISSIONARIES

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 14 (AP).—Laughlin Currie, administrative assistant to President Roosevelt, talked today with representatives of the American missionary community, who informed him of an urgent need for trained Americans to work in hospitals, schools, and rural reconstruction projects.

Currie, here on an economic mission, has shown keen interest in American missionary activities in China.

Earlier, Currie conferred with Chou En-lai, liaison officer between Chinese communists and the National government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Navy Plane Takes Hopkins to San Juan from Trinidad

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 14 (AP).—Harry L. Hopkins, President Roosevelt's personal envoy returning from London, arrived here at 7:15 p. m. from Trinidad aboard a United States navy plane. Hopkins took the navy plane when the Pan American Yankee Clipper was delayed at Trinidad because of unfavorable weather. He spent the night at the governor's home, where it was understood he made a telephone call to the White House in Washington.

Italy Reports Parachutists' Capture

(Story in adjoining column.)

The Italian high command announced yesterday that British parachute troops had been captured while preparing to damage waterworks and communications in the "foot" of the Italian boot. British military authorities in London said they had no knowledge of such a happening. Newspapers, however, told of the capture of British flyers who had bailed out of two planes that crashed.

ORDERS SURVEY OF FIRE DANGER IN CITY PLANTS

Division fire marshals were ordered yesterday to start a survey of all industrial plants handling national defense contracts and all chemical laboratories in the city. Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan issued the order as a result of the explosion which occurred Tuesday at the Edwal laboratories, a chemical manufacturing company on the 12th floor at 732 Federal street. Three men were killed and one injured there when a tank, used to brew oil of mustard, exploded.

ETHIOPIANS HAIL HAILE SELASSIE ON WEEK'S TOUR

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—A Reuters [British news agency] correspondent with the Ethiopian "patriot army" telegraphed today that Haile Selassie had just completed a week's tour of the highlands of Ethiopia during which he received the homage of the people.

Bands of armed Ethiopians took a few days off from fighting the Italians to greet the emperor, driven from his domain by the Italians in 1936, but now returned with British recognition and aid to seek to restore his rule.

Villagers rushed out to greet their returned emperor, proffering beer and food, it was reported.

BRITISH NAVAL CASUALTIES ARE GIVEN AS 12,346

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—The admiralty announced tonight that British naval personnel losses since the war began totaled 12,346, including 3,444 killed, 79 who died of other causes, 2,669 wounded, 6,040 missing, and 114 taken prisoner. The list was augmented by the announcement that 172 officers and men were missing, two were killed and three wounded in the sinking of the armed merchant cruiser Forfar and 53 were missing on the submarine Triad.

270 Measles Cases in Day Set Record for This Year

The largest number of measles cases reported in any single day this year—270—were reported to the board of health during the 24 hours ended at 9 a. m. yesterday. Dr. Herman N. Bunder, president of the board, said this brought the February total of new measles cases to 2,450, and the 1941 total to 5,999. Up to this date in 1938, the last epidemic year, 8,924 cases were reported.

GERMAN JAYWALKERS WILL GET TRAINING IN 'AWKWARD SQUADS'

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

DORTMUND, Germany, Feb. 14.—A local chief of police is starting an "awkward squad" for jaywalkers and other offenders against the traffic rules.

The police chief said that 90 per cent of the pedestrian offenders against traffic rules are women and that when caught they not only answer policemen sarcastically, but offer resistance.

Hence, they will be punished first with heavy fines. Then they will be compelled to attend a special "school" where they will be drilled on how to cross streets. Failure to attend this awkward squad will be punished with a fine of $5 and the number of compulsory lessons will be doubled.

1ST INDEPENDENT IN 28 YEARS SEEKS VENEZUELA HELM

CARACAS, Venezuela, Feb. 14 (AP).—Romulo Gallegos, a novelist and head of the federal district administrative council, today announced he would be a candidate for president in the April election. It will be the first time in 28 years that an independent candidate has sought the office.

In 1913, Arvelo Gonzalez, a newspaper man, announced on behalf of the Non-Government party the nomination of a Dr. Montes. Juan Vicente Gomez, who ruled Venezuela either as president or commander in chief of the army from 1908 to his death in 1935, sent Montes into exile and imprisoned Gonzalez.

President General Eleazar Lopez Contreras was elected by the Venezuelan congress April 25, 1936, but recently said he would give up his office in April after "assuring the transmission of power" to his successor.

DANISH COUNCIL IN LONDON SEEKS AID FOR BRITAIN

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Under the slogan, "With Great Britain for Denmark's Freedom," a Danish council of about 40 business men and former Danish government officials has been formed in London to recruit Danish help for Britain in the war against Germany.

Besides organizing support for the British cause among the 6,000 Danes in this country, the council has been in communication with thousands of its countrymen in other parts of the world, it was announced, and plans a further extension of its activities.

Denmark's greatest contribution to Britain so far has been on the sea. Four thousand Danish sailors were on ships seized by the British when Denmark was invaded and they now form the crews on their own vessels under the British flag.

BRITISH SOLDIERS DRIVE 130 MILES INTO SOMALILAND

Capture of Two Italian Towns Announced.

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 14 (AP).—British troops have advanced 130 miles into Italian Somaliland from Kenya, military sources indicated today in announcing the fall of the Italian towns of Afmudu and Bullo Erillo.

Five armored cars were taken at Afmudu, where a heavy raid by the South African air force had put most of the garrison to flight before British ground forces arrived, a communiqué stated. Four cars were reported to have been seized at Bullo Erillo, where it was said Italian resistance was strong. [The loss of Afmudu already had been acknowledged by the Italians.]

Report Ethiopians Advance.

News of these successes on one of a series of far scattered African battle fronts came almost simultaneously with a British announcement here that Ethiopian "patriots" were "steadily extending the sphere of their control" in the East African area.

In Italian Eritrea, military sources said, British troops continued their slow advance, with two columns moving on toward Asmara, the capital. One column gathered its units for the assault on the town of Keren and the other operated further to the south toward Arara.

From the North African theater of Libya it was reported that German planes had dropped huge bombs—presumably land mines—on British occupied Bengasi in a two hour raid Wednesday night that caused little damage.

LDN, German official news agency, reported that German combat planes bombed British military trucks and armored cars on a North African highway Thursday night. It said the roadway was destroyed in some sections and troop tents were sprayed with machine gun fire.

Capture Native Camel Corps.

British sources in Bengasi reported that a British hussar regiment had advanced into Tripolitania, the westernmost Libyan province—without meeting serious opposition—and captured a native camel corps.

Military sources estimated that in Tripolitania the Italians still had a force of five divisions—roughly 75,000 men—despite heavy Libyan campaign losses.

The third successive night attack by British bombers on the Italian naval harbor at Rhodes was reported by the British air force. Fires were set off at the junction of the pier and harbor, it was said.

Admit British Advance.

ROME, Feb. 14 (AP).—The Italian high command today reported that the British were advancing in the lower Guba region of Italian Somaliland, and announced that for the first time the Italians were using "formations of irregulars" in an effort to halt the advance.

Axe Plans Raid Malta.

VALLETTA, Malta, Feb. 14 (AP).—Four axis air raiders attacked Malta last night, killing three persons, injuring seven, and causing slight damage to both government and civilian property.

Sentence 21 Iron Guards to Prison for Slaying Jews

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 14 (AP).—Twenty-one members of the Rumanian Iron Guard were condemned to 20 years of hard labor by court martial today on charges of killing more than 100 Jews in the January rebellion.

100 LAND AFTER RAIDER WRECKS 6 BRITISH SHIPS

Shells Hurlled at Convoy for Half an Hour.

FUNCHAL, Madeira, Feb. 14 (AP).—More than 100 survivors landed here today, reported that six ships were believed sunk when a German raider, probably a pocket battleship, attacked a British convoy steaming northward between Madeira and the Azores.

[The Germans have announced that six ships were wrecked last Sunday in a convoy off the Portuguese coast. An attack on another convoy, in mid-Atlantic, was reported by the German high command Thursday, in which 11 ships were destroyed. A line between Madeira and the Azores is about 700 miles southwest of Portugal.]

Half Hour of Shelling.

The survivors, four of whom were taken to hospitals, said the raider hurled salvos of shells into the convoy for half an hour and then sped over the horizon. All vessels in the convoy returned the fire, it was said.

After the raid, the undamaged vessels which had been dispersed began picking up survivors from the ships which went down.

One of the ships sunk was believed to have been Greek.

Disclosure Loss of Seven Ships.

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—Marine circles disclosed today the identity of seven British, allied, and neutral vessels which have been sunk recently. Among these was the former American freighter Bellflower

RUMANIA PLACED UNDER BLOCKADE BY BRITAIN'S NAVY

Classed as 'Enemy' Area in London Decree.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, Feb. 14.—In a sequel to the rupture of diplomatic relations between the two countries, the British government today announced that Rumania, starting tomorrow, would be treated as "territory under enemy occupation," subject to blockade by the British navy and, presumably, also to attacks from the air.

The official statement putting Rumania in the same category as other countries swallowed up by Germany followed Nazi orders for nightly blackouts in Rumania to protect oil wells and strategic military objectives from British bombers.

Goods Liable to Seizure.
A statement by the ministry of economic warfare said that "as from Feb. 15 Rumania will be regarded as an enemy destination for contraband purposes and all goods of Rumanian origin or ownership are liable to seizure." The board of trade announced at the same time that it would be an offense for any one in Britain to "have dealings with or for the benefit of any person in that territory."

Radu Florescu, Rumanian chargé d'affaires, and Ion Murgu, press attaché, announced their resignations from the Rumanian diplomatic service as six others from the legation started for Bucharest. Both refused to obey recall orders from Bucharest as a protest against the Rumanian government's submission to Germany. They placed themselves at the disposal of the British government. Virgil Tila, former Rumanian minister to London, resigned his office last July for similar reasons.

British Leave Bucharest.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 14 (AP).—The British diplomatic mission left by special train from blacked out Bucharest shortly before midnight tonight for the port of Constanta. One hundred and forty-six British and members of allied diplomatic missions were aboard the special 10 car train, which will take the passengers to the docks at Constanta to board the Turkish steamer Izmir for Istanbul. A woman with a German passport was aboard the train. For years she had taught English in the Bucharest schools.

More than 100 English men and women refused to go and were left under the protection of the American legation.

Take a Last Look at City.

The American, Chinese, and Turkish ministers waved good-bye at the station. Many gray haired Englishmen who had spent nearly all their lives in this country—which was Britain's ally in the world war—toured the city in taxicabs just before train time for a last look. Some hours before time to leave Bucharest Mrs. Zoe Simpson, the former Princess Ghica, was found shot to death. A member of one of Rumania's leading families, she became a British subject on marrying an English oil man, who died recently. Last night she packed her belongings, went to the farewell parties, and then, investigators said, she went home and put a bullet thru her head.

Foreign Writers Warned

They Must Stay in Rome

ROME, Feb. 14.—Foreign newspapermen were notified today that they may not leave Rome without permission. The official reason given was that certain correspondents had gone to Bordighera before and during the Mussolini-Franco conference. The action is regarded as part of a complicated and determined campaign to seal Italy tight and keep news of military interest inside the country.

KIDNAPED, TAKEN ON HOLDUP TOUR, SAYS MOTORIST

James Porter, 23 years old, of 740 West 62d street, reported to Englewood police last night that three men had held him captive in his car while they drove around the city for two and one-half hours, committing five strong-arm robberies. Porter surrendered $9 and his wristwatch, valued at $12.

He said the men accosted him in an alley after he had put his car in a garage at 710 Englewood avenue, made him take it out again, and forced him to remain in the rear of the car. They remarked that one victim, robbed on the Midway, had told them he was a University of Chicago student, adding, "He must be. He had only 35 cents." Another intended victim, Herbert Koebel, 48, resisted the robbers and put them to flight near his home at 5125 Ellis avenue. He noted the license number of the car.

After being taken as far as the northwest side, Porter was released at 25th street and Wabash avenue. The robbers accompanied him a block up the street, threw down his car keys, and told him to walk slowly back to the car. Then they disappeared. Porter said they told him they committed the robberies to get money so they could go on a party.

GERMANS ARREST U. S. WOMAN IN PARIS 2ND TIME

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP).—Chester A. Kahn received word tonight from the state department in Washington that German agents in Paris had arrested his sister, Mrs. Etta Kahn Shiber, widow of a New York newspaper man, for the second time. A telegram from the American embassy in Paris, relayed to Kahn by the state department, read: "German embassy here [Paris] has officially notified embassy in response to its intervention in behalf of Etta Kahn Shiber, that she is being held as an accessory to others under arrest and charged with aiding in the escape into the free zone of military fugitives."

Mrs. Kahn was released Christmas eve after her previous arrest. She has lived in Paris since the death of her husband, William N. Shiber, three years ago.

VOTE HIGHWOOD MORALS CLAUSE FOR CAB DRIVERS

The Highwood city council last night approved a new taxi cab ordinance requiring each driver to obtain an affidavit from two reputable citizens that he is of good moral character. The action followed imposition of fines of $91 each on two cab drivers who recently beat a soldier from Fort Sheridan. The ordinance retains the old license fee of $20 a year for each cab. Other requirements added are that drivers must be able to read and write, must not be addicted to liquor or narcotics, and that cabs must be inspected every six months. Revocation of licenses and fines up to $200 are provided in case of violation.

PETAIRN RETURNS AS VICHY AWAITS NEXT AXIS MOVE

Marshal Happy After Talk with Franco.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

VICHY, France, Feb. 14.—Chief of State Petain returned to Vichy this morning after a three day trip to meet Generalissimo Franco of Spain. He appeared in good humor and was smiling when he was met at the station by War Minister General Charles Huntziger and other notables. Crowds cheered him warmly all the way back to his quarters at the Hotel du Parc.

Official circles stressed the cordiality of yesterday's meeting at Montpellier and it was remarked that on leaving the town, Ramon Serrano Suner, Spanish foreign minister, shouted, "Vive la France!"

Petair's return has brought scarcely any new information as to what is going to happen in the next two or three weeks, but some circles believe an explosion similar to the speedy occupation of Denmark and Norway is going to occur soon.

See Vigorous Blow.

Military critics seem to concur in the belief that the axis powers are going to strike a vigorous blow to repair the Mediterranean situation, either before or together with a general assault on England.

Some see the possibility of complete abandonment by the axis of their African positions without envisaging any axis defeat in the Mediterranean. The Mediterranean was the biggest graveyard of ships in the last war, it is said, and is regarded by naval experts as an ideal field of action for submarines.

As to the question whether submarines employed on a large scale in connection with aviation could render the British fleet powerless, there are arguments on both sides.

Those who believe submarines could put the British out, however, presume that the axis powers would not only have to close Gibraltar, but also obtain bases at Tangiers and the Balearic Islands. At the other end of the Mediterranean, a German march thru Bulgaria would completely reverse the present situation in Greece.

Madrid Silent on Visit.

MADRID, Spain, Feb. 14 (AP).—Details of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's talks with Premier Mussolini and French Chief of State Marshal Petain were obscured by official secrecy today as Franco returned.

An official announcement said Franco and his foreign minister, Ramon Serrano Suner, had a "cordial conversation" with Petain and French Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darlan at Montpellier yesterday.

Beyond the general statement, however, that Franco's talks with Petain and Mussolini had centered around the Mediterranean problems of the three nations, authorized sources declined to comment.

SPANISH REFUGEE SHIP CHARTERED IN U. S. PUT ON BRITISH BLACKLIST

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—The steamship Lovcen, under charter to the American rescue ship mission, which planned to transport 450 Spanish loyalists from Casablanca, French Morocco, to Mexico the latter part of this month, was placed on the British blacklist today.

Naming the Lovcen, a 2,390 ton vessel of Panama registry, the 5,222 ton Sirio, and the 2,609 ton Josephine, the British embassy advised charterers and shippers "that by reason of contravention of British regulations, the British government will impose all disabilities in their power on trading" by the vessels. Whether the mission would have to abandon its plans to have the Lovcen sail on Feb. 27 could not be learned immediately.

Recently Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and others resigned from the mission after publication of charges that the mission was communist dominated.

GAS OVERCOMES TWO SLEEPING IN TRUCK; REVIVED

Lloyd Keck, 44 years old, and his son, William, 20, of Mason city, Ia., were overcome by gas early today while they were sleeping in their transport truck in the Brady Transfer and Storage company's garage at 2100 Kinzie street. They had brought a cargo of merchandise to the city and went to sleep on bunks in the truck before the return trip. The gas was generated by a heater in the truck.

Young Keck, overcome, fell out of his bunk across the steering wheel, where his body pressed on the horn. The continuous blasts of the horn brought the night dispatcher, Harry Nelson, 30, of 2747 Adams street, who discovered both men unconscious. He called North avenue police. A fire inhalator squad, after working for 50 minutes, revived the two men. They were removed to the Alexian Brothers hospital.

MEXICO PLANS TO LEASE OIL FIELDS UNDER NEW BILL

Sets Up Rules to Govern Foreign Companies.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 14 (AP).—President Manuel Avila Camacho today submitted to the special session of congress a bill which would reopen Mexico's rich oil resources to private exploitation and apparently clear the way for the resumption of operations here by the United States, British, and Dutch companies expropriated by former President Cardenas in 1938.

The presidential message accompanying the proposed legislation, however, made it clear the government intended to safeguard its financial interest in the petroleum fields. Explaining his decision to prepare modifications in the constitution which affirms that all of Mexico's natural resources belong to the nation, the president said he sought the "amplitude and flexibility required for the best stimulation of private initiative."

Wants State to Benefit.

President Camacho, who pledged opportunities for United States capital during his campaign, told congress:

"Such modifications are designed to make attractive the leasing of petroleum fields from the nation, placing such leases upon a financial basis more in accordance with the realities of our capital market, with the essentially speculative nature of the enterprise and with accepted business standards."

"This, however, without prejudicing the fundamental point of view of the law that the nation, as owner of the oil, is the one who first of all should receive benefits resulting from the exploitation."

The petroleum companies have not insisted on outright ownership being restored to them, but have demanded clearly defined and ample management rights and that the government share under a lease relationship which would guarantee it a fixed percentage of profits. Some such formula appeared possible under the projected law.

17 COMPANIES AFFECTED.

Seventeen United States, British, and Netherlands oil companies owned the properties expropriated March 18, 1938. The companies set valuation at more than $400,000,000, a figure which the Mexican government called excessive. In December, 1939, the Mexican Supreme court unanimously upheld the expropriation as constitutional.

In May, 1940, Mexico completed a separate agreement settling the Consolidated Oil corporation [Sinclair] expropriation claims for $5,500,000, with the company agreeing to buy 20,000,000 barrels of crude oil over a three year period.

No agreement was reached, however, with the Royal Dutch interests of Great Britain and the Netherlands and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

THREE CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTED TRAIN WRECKING

Admit Trying to Extort $50,000 from Railroad.

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 14 (AP).—Three bowling alley pin-setters were arrested today on charges of attempting to wreck a train and to extort $50,000 from the Southern Pacific railroad.

Removal of spikes and angle irons from a section of track over which the line's westbound Pacific Limited was due to pass was discovered by a trackwalker Feb. 8. Repairs were made, and the train continued on schedule.

Tells of Confession.

Nat Pieper, agent in charge of the San Francisco office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which made the arrest, named the trio as Bernal Culver Carter, 20 years old, Kenneth Alexander Lennon, 20, and Owen Berlen McHenry, 33. Pieper said all three admitted the extortion charge. In Washington, D. C., an FBI announcement said the men confessed to attempted extortion and also to removal of 44 spikes from the tracks. In seeking the $50,000, the FBI said the trio threatened to damage the company's property if their demands were not met.

Asked Many Questions.

Pieper did not specify whether the men were questioned about the wreck of the Southern Pacific's streamliner, City of San Francisco, at Harney,

Nov., Aug. 12, 1939, which killed 24 persons and injured 108, but said the men were asked "lots of things."

Pieper said the extortion attempt was made Jan. 6 under threat of damage to the railroad.

In the track tampering incident more than a month later a 24 foot section was loosened until only a single bolt held it in place.

DOG BITES 10 PUPILS.

Ten pupils of Champlain elementary school were bitten by a stray dog yesterday in the school yard at 61st street and Princeton avenue. The children were able to return to classes. The dog was impounded by Englewood police for a rabies examination.

CRIMINAL COURT JUDGES FAVOR PAROLE REFORM

All Back Ward-Rennick Fixed Sentences Bill.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

All the judges in the Criminal court favor passage by the legislature of the Ward-Rennick parole reform bill. A survey of the judges, who deal daily with scores of criminal cases, shows that all of them oppose the present parole system and favor trying some substitute in the hope of bettering conditions.

The proposed new law would give Criminal court judges the right to fix minimum and maximum sentences for each person convicted of a felony. The measure's sponsors hope that this plan would put an end to the recurring parole scandals which have resulted from the premature release of convicts by politically controlled parole boards.

Accept Proposed Responsibility.
The judges recognize that under the new law they would be burdened with a new responsibility, but all expressed a readiness to accept it in long incarceration of first offenders and the too early release of repeat offenders.

The views of Chief Justice James F. Fardy of the Criminal court in favor of the Ward-Rennick bill have already been outlined. Following are statements by his associates in the court:

JUDGE JOHN A. SBARBARO—After hearing all the witnesses for and against a defendant, judges are in a better position to designate the sentence than is a parole board hearing the case months and sometimes years afterward. The judge hears the evidence, sees the witnesses, and gets the facts when they are fresh in the minds of the witnesses. I am in favor of changing the system.

Preserves "Human Element."
JUDGE JOHN F. BOLTON—The proposed new system is far superior to the present setup. The judge sees the human element in each case when it is before him in court. He is in a far better position to determine the sentence than is a parole board reading the cold record of facts months later and hearing only those interested in the parole of the defendant. The present system is unsatisfactory.

JUDGE JOSEPH A. GRABER—I am in favor of the proposed change. Many things can and do happen under the present parole system. It is not necessarily the fault of the members of the parole board, but of the system. Many prisoners serve too much time and others who have influence, or make the proper connections, serve too little. The judges are trained in dealing with criminals. They hear all the circumstances in each case. The parole board has only a record before it. The only witness it hears are those interested in the early release of the criminal. At present the judge's job is more or less clerical. He automatically mites out the sentence as it appears in the code book. The new law will give the judge added responsibility, which they must accept.

Present System Called Unfair.
JUDGE JULIUS A. MINER—My heart aches every time I am obliged to pronounce an indeterminate sentence on a first offender, particularly a youngster. When the court imposes such a sentence he has no idea of the actual extent of the penalty because that then rests with the parole board which has not seen or heard the witnesses. It is basically wrong and legally unfair and demoralizing. I am in favor of a change.

UPHOLD RIPARIAN RIGHTS AWARD FOR OUTER DRIVE

A jury verdict awarding $32,550 to Adolph Schmidt against the Chicago park district for riparian rights to property at 6330 Sheridan road was upheld yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court. The court reversed the action last June of Judge Peter H. Schwab in granting the park district a new trial on the verdict which was returned in 1932.

Schmidt's suit was the first of 30 condemnation proceedings brought by the old Lincoln park board to acquire riparian rights of property owners along the shore from Foster to Devon avenues for extension of the Outer drive. Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district, said extension of the drive has been abandoned temporarily and that the park is negotiating for dismissal of most of the old condemnation suits. Dunham said the park has acquired rights to some of the property and that when the Outer drive project is revived new condemnation suits will be filed.

DETECTIVE KILLS PAROLEE AS HE RESISTS ARREST

Stanley Konkel, a parolee convicted, was shot and fatally wounded last night by Detective Joseph Ponicki when he tried to resist arrest in front of 927 North Kullin avenue. He died in County hospital.

Detectives Ponicki and Edward Kennedy were in a automobile waiting for Konkel to emerge from the home of his sister, Mrs. Helen Rogus, 825 North Kullin avenue. On Feb. 8, according to Kennedy, Konkel had escaped him and Ponicki when they went to his father's home at 1528 Thomas street to question him about the theft of an automobile. Yesterday, Kennedy said, Konkel called him at the Racine avenue police station and said, "Meet me in front of my sister's home, and I'll give you $250 to square everything." Capt. Martin Mullen ordered Kennedy to arrest Konkel.

When Konkel came out of Mrs. Rogus' house, he gave Kennedy $50, saying, "I'll give you the rest later." Kennedy told him he was under arrest, and Konkel turned and ran down the street. Ponicki fired four bullets striking Konkel.

Konkel was paroled from Joliet penitentiary last Dec. 23 after serving seven years for robbery. In 1933 he was paroled from Pontiac after serving four years for burglary.

WOMAN HERMIT FOUND ON ISLAND 'GARDEN OF EDEN'

Lives in Galapagos Realm of Baroness 'Empress.'

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 14 (AP)—The story of a new, mysterious woman resident of the Galapagos Islands, in which Baroness Bonquet de Wagner played the role of "empress" a few years ago, has been brought here. Milton Lobell of the United States fisheries mission in Peru, at the end of a voyage from San Pedro, Cal., in the 80 foot yacht Pacific Queen, said he had found a stoop shouldered, almost toothless woman hermit living in the "Garden of Eden."

She said she was an American citizen named Johnson, Yonson, or Yansen, he related, but spoke with a German accent. She was about 45 years old, of medium height, and had light brown hair. Her conversation showed considerable knowledge of the Pacific coast of the United States, he said.

Woman Found in Hut.
Putting in at the islands 700 miles off Ecuador to shift fuel tanks, Lobell said he found the woman in a hut near the grave of the late Dr. Friedrich Ritter, the German dentist who with Frau Dora Koerwien left his wife some years ago to establish a "paradise" on desolate Charles Island.

She apparently was living on the fruit of the trees which Dr. Ritter planted. Dr. Ritter died—his island mate said it was poison—some time after the arrival on the island of Baroness De Wagner and some time during the course of mysterious happenings in which the bodies of two of her male companions, Alfred Rudolph Lorenz and Trygve Nuggard, were found on a neighboring island.

Baroness Disappears.
The baroness, who carried a revolver attached to a silver cord about her neck, disappeared soon afterward.

When President Roosevelt, aboard the cruiser Houston, visited Charles Island in July, 1938, only seven persons were living there, three of them children.

The island inhabited by the mysterious new resident is across Post-office bay, where sailors used to get their mail and where a garrison of Ecuadorian soldiers is stationed. The woman, who said she had lost her money to a thief in Ecuador and had no choice except to seek refuge on the island, begged supplies of Lobell, but showed no desire to leave the carefully fenced garden where she has her home.

YOUTHS IN AUTO ROB FIVE WOMEN WITHIN AN HOUR

A gang of three young purse snatchers, active on the northwest side in recent weeks, robbed five women within an hour last night. While one drove a car the other two would jump out, snatch the purses and escape in the car.

The victims were Miss Marie Dugan, 3800 Eddy street, who lost $40; Mrs. Erna Wilke, 4137 North Lawler avenue, $9; Mrs. Sarah Nathan, 3045 Sunnyside avenue, $4; Miss Marie Wolinski, 3319 North Harding avenue, $5.35, and Mrs. Alvina Mootz, 3914 North St. Louis avenue, $7.

Another gang robbed two colored women on the south side. Two colored men snatched purses from Mrs. Elizabeth Hillmore, 3721 Lake Park avenue, who lost $1, and Mrs. Florentine Stallworth, 3658 Prairie avenue, $4. Two other colored men seized a purse containing 65 cents from Mrs. Edwina Taylor, colored, of 314 East 60th street. Harold Neil, 14, of 5123 South Racine avenue, was seized by police after he snatched a purse containing 40 cents from Miss Emily Levitan, 22, 6016 South Carpenter street. He named Harry Mewes, 15, of 4914 South Racine avenue, as his companion, and Mewes was also taken into custody.

Broken Leg Heals; Breaks Again Leaving Hospital

Jerry McNeerney, 38 years old, a stepladder, broke his leg seven months ago and ever since has been in ward 33 at the County hospital. Yesterday the cast was taken off and he was provided with a pair of crutches. McNeerney started out to catch a Halsted street car for his home at 3319 South Union avenue. Half a block up the street one crutch caught in an aperture in the cover of a manhole and he fell. McNeerney was carried back to ward 33, his leg broken again.

U. S. WILL OPEN QUIZ INTO BLAST THAT KILLED 7

None Survives to Tell How It Happened.

Du Quoin, Ill., Feb. 14 (Special)—Federal and state investigators were on their way here tonight to inquire into a terrific explosion which blew seven men to death this morning at the Fidelity mine of the United Electric Coal companies six miles west of here.

The cause of the blast was still a mystery many hours after it occurred, for it killed every one in its vicinity. It demolished the mine's liquid oxygen plant, the scene of the explosion, and a nearby storage plant, scattering debris from the buildings over an area of a quarter of a mile.

List of Victims.
The victims were Lou W. Barker, 69 years old, superintendent of the liquid oxygen plant; James Thornton, 72; Lyle Cook, 35; his brother, Russell, 31; John Bailey, 25; John Rappuzi, 30, and Nelson Todd, 24.

At the time of the blast, five of the men were unloading a box car of sacked carbon, or lamp black. They were taking this powdered product into the plant for treatment with liquid oxygen which would convert it into an explosive for use in blasting rock in the company's big strip mine. As the five toiled with the sacks of carbon, Lyle and Russell Cook, carpenters, were working on the roof of a shed near the oxygen plant. In an instant all were blown to death, the body of one victim being hurled 400 feet, and all so mutilated they were recognizable only by their clothing.

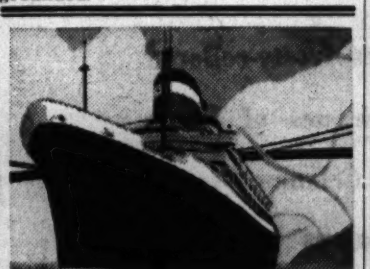

Distasteful Garage Damaged.
Parts of the box car and of the oxygen plant, a structure 50 by 100 feet were hurled great distances. The storage plant, about 30 by 30 feet, also was demolished. A big truck garage 400 feet away was damaged. The oxygen and nearby storage plants were isolated about a quarter of a mile from the company's main office and mine tipple. The blast knocked objects off shelves in the main office and was felt in Du Quoin, six miles away.

PRESIDENT ACTS TO BLOCK STRIKE OF RAIL WORKERS

Sets Up Special Board of Mediation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—President Roosevelt today intervened in a threatened strike of 1,300 employees of the Rutland (Vermont) Railroad company called for 6 p. m. today, indicating his probable action if a nationwide railroad strike, now looming, is called. He ordered a special board set up to investigate and report within 30 days on the Rutland dispute.

Altho the Rutland strike threat involved only 1,300 employees, the President's action under the railway labor act was important as forecasting that every effort will be made to prevent a nationwide strike, involving 750,000 members of 14 railroad brotherhoods. A walkout of this 75 per cent of the nation's railroad employees would disrupt the defense program.

Distribute Ballots Today. The brotherhoods will distribute ballots tomorrow for a referendum on whether to strike for two weeks vacation with pay. It will take 30 days to get returns from the balloting.

In the Rutland situation, the President issued a proclamation setting up the emergency board. Following its report, another 30 days are allowed for the parties to the dispute to accept or reject the board's findings. Therefore, the strike is postponed for at least 60 days. The employees, members of the brotherhoods, had voted to strike in protest against wage cuts of from 10 to 30 per cent, scheduled for tomorrow.

Other Serious Strikes. Meanwhile, progress on defense production was delayed by strikes in a number of plants throughout the nation.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Negotiations continued for settlement of the 24-day old strike at the Allis-Chalmers plant. Defense officials and union representatives in Washington for conference said they were hopeful of an early settlement of the strike. The plant has 25,000,000 in defense orders. The open shop is the issue.

CARTERET, N. J.—A C. I. O. strike at the plant of the Foster-Wheeler corporation, producing bolts and condensers, delayed work on $15,000,000 in navy contracts.

BETHLEHEM, Pa.—Two mills of the Bethlehem Steel company reported a shut down and three operating at reduced schedule because of C. I. O. walkouts.

DUTCH HARBOR, ALASKA.—Carpenters working on a navy base construction project struck for higher wages.

LANSING, MICH.—Federal collectors were called to help settle a strike of 3,000 A. F. of L. members at the Motor Wheel corporation, which has defense orders totaling $1,400,000.

Other Strike Developments.

Other strike developments were: YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Youngstown (Ohio) Sheet and Tube company closed down 11 furnaces yesterday, shutting off production of 3,000 to 4,000 tons of steel a day, after 2,000 C. I. O. union workmen walked out. Most of the steel made by the firm was said to go to other concerns which are filling defense orders.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.—A United States labor department conciliator arranged for a conference Monday in an effort to end a strike at the Vanadium corporation's steel alloy plant. The company has extensive defense contracts. Four hundred workmen were affected by the strike, called by the chemical division of the United Mine Workers (C. I. O.) to support demands for higher wages.

MARION, IND.—Contract negotiations were interrupted today by a strike of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (A. F. of L.) at the plant of the Farnsworth Television and Radio corporation. The plant was working on several hundred thousand dollars worth of radio equipment for the army. Negotiators are deadlocked over what the union called a "preferential shop" and the management a "closed shop."

WOMAN INDICTED FOR MURDER IN DEATH OF MATE

East St. Louis, Ill., Feb. 14 (Special).—Mrs. Lue Burns, 38 years old, who slew her fourth husband with a revolver in their home here Jan. 23, was indicted for murder by a grand jury today.

Mrs. Burns, now at liberty on $10,000 bail, may be arraigned next week. She has been in a hospital at Granite City, Ill., for the last three weeks undergoing treatment for a "nervous disorder."

The woman also slew her third husband, Shelby Clay, in Madison, Ill., in 1931. A coroner's jury ruled she did it in self-defense.

4 Robbers Seize $2,065 Pay Roll; Threaten Six

Four robbers escaped with a $2,065 pay roll yesterday after compelling Charles Billheimer, assistant secretary of the Maxant Button and Supply company, to open a safe in the company offices at 117 South Morgan street. Basil Maxant, president; his son, William, who had just brought the money from the bank, and his daughter, Ruth, with Billheimer and two other employees, were forced to line up against a wall during the robbery.

The young folks present danced in their original costumes while their parents were having an old-fashioned collation in the Casino.

CHARGES LEADER OF C. I. O. STRIKE DEFILED U. S. FLAG

Carteret, N. J., Feb. 14 (AP).—Nell Brant, C. I. O. field representative who is directing a strike of the United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers union which has halted work on $305,099 in defense contracts at the Foster-Wheeler corporation plant, was booked tonight as a violator of an old New Jersey law concerning offenses against the flag.

Police Recorder Michael Resko said Brant was charged with mutilating and defiling the American flag by placing it on a table and striking it with a mallet and also by resting hands and leaning on it at the union meeting at which the strike was called.

Joseph Zydzik, employe of the closed Foster-Wheeler plant, preferred the charge.

Brant denied the charge, saying, "The arrest is an act of vindictive. He will be arraigned Monday."

VOID CONVICTION OF THREE SILVER SHIRT MEMBERS

The conviction a year ago by a Criminal court jury of three members of the Silver Shirt League of America, an anti-Semitic organization, on charges of malicious mischief was reversed yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court on the ground that prejudicial evidence in connection with the Silver Shirt organization was introduced during the trial.

The defendants, who had been sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary, are Homer Herman Meert, Fred Pokorny, and Douglas Campbell. The malicious mischief charge was based on the smashing of windows of the Goldblatt Brothers west side store. The trial was held before Judge John Sbarbaro.

The Supreme court ruled that it was difficult to determine from a study of the record whether the defendants "were tried for breaking windows or for being members of an anti-Semitic organization."

A. F. of L. SEEKS SIX HARVESTER PLANT UNIONS

Strong Campaign Against C. I. O. Expected.

A fight by the American Federation of Labor against the Congress of Industrial Organizations for control of some 25,000 employees of the International Harvester company was indicated last night after one large independent union, at the West Pullman works in Chicago, announced it would join the A. F. of L.

Earlier in the day Sidney G. McAllister, president of the company, had informed the independent unions in six large plants that an order to disestablish these organizations, issued by the National Labor Relations board last week, would be obeyed without court appeal, and that there could be no collective bargaining in these plants until official agencies had been designated by the NLRB.

Plans Organization Drive. Clarence Willett, president of the West Pullman group, said the decision to affiliate with the A. F. of L. was made at a meeting attended by all the officers and stewards, and an intensive organization campaign would be started at once. The independents claimed 1,800 of the 2,600 West Pullman workers.

Another large independent union, that of the McCormick works on the harvester company, will meet this afternoon in Pulaski hall at 18th street and Ashland avenue to decide whether to go A. F. of L. or form a new independent union. A. Baldi, president, who claimed over 5,000 of the nearly 7,000 McCormick works employees, said the question of affiliation had been carefully studied.

It is known also that federation organizers have been talking with the independent union heads at the Milwaukee plant, and those at Rock Island, Rock Falls, and East Moline comprise the six in which the disestablishment of unions, on the ground that they were company dominated, was ordered.

Denies Domination Charge. The domination charge was vigorously denied by McAllister. He said the company had no choice and that it would be ready to deal with any regularly certified unions at any time. He added that it was reasonable to assume the labor board would hold elections to determine the wishes of the employees in each plant.

Frank Silva, director of the Farm Equipment Workers Organizing committee (C. I. O.), in an answer to McAllister, declared the FEWOC claimed bargaining rights for all its members in the six plants. He said his organization would not "be forced into the position of raising the question" of an election in any of the plants; that such an election would tie up his membership in litigation for months.

The FEWOC strike, called Jan. 29 at the tractor works, where this union holds official bargaining rights, was still in progress with little hope of early settlement. The union has demanded elimination of piecework and a minimum pay rate of 75 cents an hour for men and 65 cents for women.

PREPARE TO GRAB PROPERTIES OF TAX DELINQUENTS

John S. Clark, county assessor, was busy yesterday compiling a list of individuals and firms designated as chronic dodgers of personal property taxes. The list is to be turned over to John Toman, county treasurer, with a request that he seize sufficient property of the delinquents to satisfy the back tax bills.

The assessor said that of the 521 million dollars of personal property assessed in 1939, about 70 per cent belonged to business firms and that these firms are 50 per cent delinquent and a minimum pay rate of 75 cents an hour for men and 65 cents for women.

Clark said the classifications that pay least of their share are machines, and merchandise, 138 millions. In contrast, bank stocks are 100 per cent paid, and stocks and bonds are over 90 per cent paid, he said.

It was agreed at a conference of county officials and tax experts Thursday that the treasurer had ample power to make seizures without court order.

FINDS VERDICT IN MOTHER'S DEATH. A coroner's jury decided yesterday that Mrs. Jennie Rogers, 26 years old, was fatally burned last Jan. 17 when she beat out the flames on the clothing of her daughter, Ramona, 2, in the kitchen of their home at 2713 Adams street.

Get Court Valentine

There were no cupid or love ditties on the Valentine which Judge Thomas A. Green presented yesterday to the Valentine brothers, Harry, 44 years old, of 3034 North Racine avenue, and Conrad, 47, of 1503 East 67th street. He sentenced them to one year's probation for petty larceny. They were seized Dec. 18 at the Cougle Commission company, 1133 West Randolph street, where Conrad was a watchman, as they were attempting to load two barrels of Christmas turkeys into Harry's automobile.

GREEN REPORTS 500,000 GAIN IN A. F. L. MEMBERS (Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Miami, Fla., Feb. 14.—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor today announced that the federation had picked up half a million new members in the last four months of last year. The membership now is approximately 4,750,000, he said.

Green added the information that a welcome is being extended to the International Typographical union, which is 50,000 strong, to rejoin the federation. The I. T. U. withdrew a few years ago. President Claude N. Baker of the typographers is here with a delegation to discuss rapprochement.

Green said he recently had discussed labor affairs with Harry Bennett, the Ford personnel boss, in Detroit. He said he felt he had failed to convince Bennett of the value of union recognition and added that as far as he knows Ford still is opposed to recognizing unions.

BOOKIE RAIDERS SEIZE 71 MEN AND 6 WOMEN Six women and 71 men were arrested yesterday in police raids on four handbooks. The prisoners were taken to the Central station, where assistant state attorneys questioned them. All were released after making bonds. Seventeen of the men were booked as keepers of gambling houses and the others, who were seized as patrons, were charged with disorderly conduct.

The principal raid was on the first floor at 1133 Wilson avenue, where the 6 women and 55 men were bundled into patrol wagons. A blackjack table and other gambling equipment was confiscated. The other raids were at 4618 Clifton avenue, where seven men were seized; at 22 East 8th street, where eight men were arrested, and at 1854 North Clark street, where one man was arrested.

NORWOOD PARK AREA TO BALLOT ON JOINING CITY Voters in a district of Norwood Park township will ballot today to determine whether a majority of them want the area annexed to Chicago. The district, with a population of 2,500, is bounded by Montrose avenue, Oriole avenue, Irving Park road, and Ozark avenue.

The election was ordered by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. It will be held under supervision of Robert Taylor, election board attorney, from noon to 9 p. m. in the James Giles school in the district.

If those in favor of annexation win the election, they must get approval of the city council before the actual inclusion of the district is effected.

Park Displays Weird, Rank Smelling Flower Three of the weirdest looking, rankest smelling flowers in the horticultural world will be in bloom over the week-end at the Lincoln park conservatory. It was announced yesterday, called "Devil's Tongues" and originating in China and India, the flowers are six feet tall and have a dirty maroon flower atop a mottled stem. Their rank smell serves a purpose, since in their native habitat they are pollinated by carrion-eating insects. Devil's Tongues have no root system and store their food in a thick tuber.

POLITICS BLASTS FOUNDERS' AIMS FOR ST. CHARLES

School's History Is Long Series of Scandals.

The fatal slugging of James Williams in the St. Charles School for Boys is another in the series of scandals of the last two decades in the institution once meant to become "the world's greatest boys' school."

It was so designated in 1905, when the school was formally opened under the joint sponsorship of the late John W. Gates, millionaire philanthropist, and a group of wealthy residents in Fox River valley and Chicago who were interested in the welfare of wayward boys.

"It is going to be the greatest school, not only in the country but in the world," Gates said then. "We will spend what money is necessary to make it that—the greatest boys' school."

Fine Start Is Made. For the first decade, the prophecy almost realized fulfillment. Nelson McLane, the first superintendent, selected the school's personnel with care and without consideration of political taints. Treatment of prisoners was firm, but fair. Strict military discipline was maintained. Corporal punishment was employed only in cases of extreme necessity.

Morale of both the school guards and the prisoners was high during the school's early years. One of the outstanding superintendents was Col. C. B. Adams, veteran of the Spanish-American war, who headed the school from 1910 until his death in 1922. He was credited with the best administration in the school's history.

Two Factors Destroy Purpose. But even during his service two factors were working to destroy the effectiveness of the school's original purpose: Political maneuvering and the cries of the sob sister element among social workers. The latter shouted for new laws which caused the school to slip from the hands of the original founders. The politicians found the new laws—which ultimately placed all state institutions in the welfare department—a medium by which they could reward loyal precinct workers and political underlings with jobs as guards and attendants.

In 1922, after Col. Adams died, the reverting wave of scandal began to envelop the school. Discipline was relaxed completely or guards became excessively cruel. In 1928, clubwomen and social workers succeeded in removing Maj. William J. Butler because he allegedly was "too rough on the boys."

Sob Sister's Ideas Futile. Subsequent superintendents found that the suggestions of sob sisters proved futile. In 1929, a total of 42 boys fled the school in the first 15 days of Otto A. Elliott's service as superintendent. In ensuing years, escapes became commonplace—and full of terror for residents in the adjoining Fox River valley.

During the last five years the term of William T. Harmon, a former commissioner of athletics in the "Little Nineteen" conference, has been marked by scores of escapes and attacks by the fugitives on nearby residents. One of these, Vivian Denton, 17, attacked Mrs. Meta Christensen, aged wife of a farmer near the school, with a hatchet in 1939. Others who

THEFT OF JEWELRY VALUED AT $17,400 ON YACHT REPORTED

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP).—Theft of jewelry valued at $17,400 from the yacht Elsanbil, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William T. Price of Merion, Pa., was reported to police today.

Police Chief Robert W. Milburn said Mrs. Price discovered the theft today when she opened a jewel case to replace a ring she had been wearing.

Included in the loot, the report said, were bracelets, pins, watches, and rings set with diamonds, sapphires, and emeralds.

15,000 DRIVERS JAM OFFICE FOR AUTO LICENSES

Police Urge Springfield
Applications by Mail.

Police and state officials yesterday urged Chicago motorists who have not obtained their 1941 state automobile plates to apply by mail to Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes in Springfield and thus avoid a long wait outside the license bureau at 330 Ashland avenue. More than 15,000 persons jammed the office yesterday and stood in line all day half way around the block from the office.

Police said it is not necessary for motorists to have their 1941 plates on their automobiles to avoid a court summons in the citywide drive on delinquent motorists. They said possession of a money order stub or other evidence that application has been made for the license is sufficient to avoid arrest.

Applications Readily Accessible. Officials explained that applications may be obtained from virtually every automobile sales agency and from public service bureaus, such as The Tribune's Dearborn street and Tribune Tower offices.

Applications must be notarized after they have been filled out. Motorists must include their last year's license card with a money order for the new license. The horse power of the car determines the cost of the license, the scale of fees being indicated on the application blanks. New owners also must apply for a state certificate of title, for which there is Kathryn Witwer and Dr. Edgar Nelson.

Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director of the Chicago and Music Festival sponsored annually by The Chicago Tribune, will address the second midwinter banquet of the festival group in the Stevens hotel tonight. More than 50 persons will attend. They represent preliminary festivals which will be held this summer.

Kathryn Witwer, soprano of the weekly Pageant of Melody program on W-G-N, will sing. Following the dinner the party will attend the radio presentation of the "Countess Maritza" in the W-G-N audience studio.

Plans for the 12th annual festival to be held Aug. 16 in Soldiers' field will be outlined to the group by Philip Maxwell, director of the festival, at a business session in the afternoon in Tribune Tower.

Those to attend represent Racine, Wis.; Cedar Rapids, Ia.; East Moline, Urbana, Peru, and West Frankfort, Ill.; West Lafayette and Michigan City, Ind.; Forest Park and north, west, and south sections of Chicago.

182,000 Tardy in County.
Raymond W. Moore, chief clerk at the Ashland avenue bureau, said 15,000 passenger car licenses and 2,000 commercial vehicle licenses were sold yesterday. In Springfield Secretary Hughes' office reported that 182,000 car owners in Cook county have not purchased their 1941 plates and that 250,000 downstaters are delinquent.

City Collector Louis Rikmann reported the sale of 20,141 city vehicle stickers yesterday. A total of 405,552 has been sold thus far this year.

Capt. David Flynn of the traffic detail announced 857 summonses have been issued since Thursday to motorists who lacked state or city licenses. He said 305 were issued yesterday.

MOTHER-IN-LAW COMES TO AID OF ERRATIC DRIVER

A mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Bok of 2047 Dayton street, went to Safety court yesterday in behalf of her daughter's husband, Carl M. Jordan, and did him a good turn by pleading his case so successfully that a reckless driving charge against him was dismissed by Judge Thomas A. Green. Jordan, who is 38 years old and lives at 1233 Draper street, was unable to be in court because of illness. He was arrested Wednesday after a collision at Ohio street and Lake Shore drive. Police said he had been drinking. Mrs. Bok pleaded that her son-in-law was a good family man and had taken one drink on his way home because he was ill and had been working too hard. Judge Green, in dismissing the charge, praised Mrs. Bok as an ideal mother-in-law.

Frank Chojewski, 2856 Hillock avenue, a clerk, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, and Arams Hill of 2607 Lincoln avenue, a painter, got 30 days both for driving while intoxicated. Their driving privileges were suspended for six months.

Hit-Run Death Car Driver Is Ordered Held to Jury

A coroner's jury recommended yesterday that Edward Gorman, 7619 83d place, Summit, be held to the grand jury for manslaughter in the hit and run automobile death Jan. 31 of Charles H. Mitchell, 71, of 6700 Perry avenue. Mitchell, former counsel for the board of election commissioners, was struck at Westworth avenue and Marquette road. Gorman confessed.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY KILLED IN TRAIN AND AUTO CRASH

Six Are Injured When Bus Hits Street Car.

Paul Prater, 15 years old, of 133 East Ravine road, Hinsdale, died last night in the Berwyn hospital after a car in which he was riding with two other Hinsdale high school students was struck by a Burlington train at Gilbert street crossing, in La Grange. The boys were driving home after seeing the Hinsdale-Lyons Township High school basketball game at La Grange. The car was driven by James Lockwood, 15, of 236 North Washington street, Hinsdale. He and the other passenger, Garland Thomas, 15, of 218 South Lincoln street, Hinsdale, were taken to the Hinsdale sanitarium with cuts about the head and body. Prater was thrown from the car and his skull fractured. Lockwood said that he did not see the train, a city-bound local. Police said that a wigwag flasher system was operating at the crossing, which is not protected by gates.

Street Car and Bus Crash. A passenger bus loaded with 25 persons bound for Fort Leonard Wood, near Tribune, Mo., where they are to be mess employees, crashed into the rear end of a northbound street car during the rush hour last night at Racine avenue and Van Buren street, injuring two women and a man on the street car and three men on the bus. The street car was derailed.

Most seriously injured were Rudolph Topolski, 39 years old, 3033 41st place, and Almon Guard, 43, of 20 South Des Plaines street. The others injured were Thomas George, 50, of 433 South Halsted street; Joseph Nolan, 37, of 14 South Peoria street; Mrs. Abbie Donohue, 68, of 8011 Champlain avenue, and Mrs. Hanna Harris, 65, of 609 East 78th street. George was riding on the street car. William J. Grant, 34, of 868 Irving Park road, driver of the bus, was charged by police with reckless driving and released on bond.

Contractor and Daughter Killed.

Sebastian Schaefer, 58, a carpenter contractor, and his daughter, Mrs. Elsie Sokol, 30, both of 7810 South Wolcott street, were killed yesterday when their automobile collided with a truck near Clarksville, Tenn. Another daughter, Mrs. Alice Musick, 25, of 903 West 83d street, was injured.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 109 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 88 were killed in Chicago, where 2,668 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

Two Boys Slain at Party in Quarrel Over Girl

Two colored boys were shot and fatally wounded last night in a quarrel over a girl at a party of 50 colored boys and girls in a flat at 4323 East 42d place, died on the sidewalk in front of the building and Paul Reid, 16, of 4347 Evans avenue, in the Provident hospital. Detective Samuel Black said an unidentified boy fired the shots and fled. Three boys were taken to Wabash avenue station for questioning. Most of the guests were high school students.

WIFE PREFERRED MR. X., HILLIARD INFORMS COURT

Sketches More Details of Bathroom Scene.

Robert Hilliard, attorney who is suing his wife, Agnes, 44 years old, for divorce on the ground of misconduct, told Judge Cornelius J. Harrington yesterday that they often had quarreled over her "decided preference" for a Mr. X. She was found hiding in a bathroom with the mysterious Mr. X when Hilliard raided her Southmoor hotel apartment last June 28.

Before a courtroom packed with persons attracted by descriptions of the raid given in Thursday's opening testimony, Hilliard testified his wife said in 1937: "Mr. X is the best friend I ever had and has done more for me than any friend in all the world. If you think you can break me up with him, you're crazy."

Tells What He Saw in Raid.
Questioned by his attorney, Royal W. Irwin, Hilliard described what he saw when he raided her apartment, accompanied by the assistant hotel manager, two policemen, two private detectives, a bell boy, a court reporter, and his secretary.

"I saw my wife run to the bathroom, clad only in a pink slip," he said. "She locked the door. Several minutes later she and Mr. X came out. She had on a printed house dress, which she later changed. Mr. X was fully clothed."

"After Mr. X signed a confession of his guilt, my wife asked me if I would go away peacefully and not have Mr. X arrested. I agreed."

One of several occasions when Mrs. Hilliard and Mr. X were together, according to Hilliard, was a party in Saugatuck, Mich., when "they disappeared for an hour and had the whole party searching for them in vain."

Mr. X Is Married, He Says.

Hilliard said he met Mr. X 13 or 14 years ago and that there had been "close social relations" between the family of Mr. X, who is married, and the Hilliard family for 10 or 11 years.

J. C. Woods, a private detective, told the court he was paid $350 by Hilliard for watching Mrs. Hilliard for the 12 days prior to the raid. He corroborated Hilliard's testimony concerning the raid, adding that the "printed house dress which Mrs. Hilliard was wearing when she emerged from the bathroom was not the same dress she had been wearing earlier on the street."

Detective's Wife Testifies.
Mrs. Woods, who aided her husband as a private detective, said she saw Mrs. Hilliard and Mr. X together three times while the detectives were investigating the case. Once, she said, they were "conversing and embracing for 45 minutes in Mrs. Hilliard's car, which was parked across the street from the Southmoor hotel."

On the second occasion, Mrs. Woods continued, Mr. X talked to Mrs. Hilliard for 20 minutes with their cars parked side by side in Tiet street. The third time, she said, the pair "sat close together in a booth in the hotel taproom." She added: "He kissed her once."

Miss Sarah Coffman, 5430 Cornell avenue, switchboard operator in Hilliard's office, testified briefly in behalf of Hilliard.

In response to a question by Judge Harrington, Hilliard said he desired the custody of his son, Robert, 16. Mrs. Hilliard now lives in Silver Springs, Md.

Dismiss Last of Forgery Charges in Bail Scandal

The state's attorney's office dismissed three forgery indictments against Sam Brin, west side tavern-keeper, in the Criminal court of Judge John Sbarbaro yesterday. The indictments were the last pending against Brin in connection with a bail bond scandal a year and a half ago. Brin has been acquitted twice on charges of forging Municipal court bonds approved by former Judge Eugene L. McGee. Last Monday a conspiracy indictment against Brin was dismissed.

JUDGE GIVES UP AS SISTERS JOIN ALIMONY FIGHT

When three sisters launched into a family argument yesterday in the Superior court hearing on Mrs. Wanda Postelnik's petition for temporary alimony, Judge Rudolph Desort declared he would not "arbitrate a feud between the Martins and the Coys." He adjourned the hearing and awarded $5 a week to Mrs. Postelnik for the temporary support of her daughter, Adrienne, 7 years old.

Mrs. Postelnik, who is 26 years old and lives at 4758 South Pulaski road, is seeking a divorce from her husband, Stanley, 30, of 4832 South Harding avenue, on a charge of cruelty. Questioned by her attorney, Casimir Wachowski, she said Postelnik twice became angry when her employer drove her home from work, and that he struck her and threw her, fully clothed, into a tub full of cold water.

A sister, Mrs. Sonia Dobbs, of the Pulaski road address, testified she saw the bruises caused when Postelnik struck his wife. Another sister, Mrs. Frances Kubbs, 4950 South Avers avenue, was questioned by the husband's attorney, A. V. Champagne. She said if Mrs. Postelnik "were not the pampered pet of the family, she might make a good wife."

Then the argument started, and Judge Desort gave up.

Wife Sues Merrill Meigs on Charge of Desertion

Merrill C. Meigs, who is on a leave of absence as publisher of the Chicago Herald-American, to head the aircraft division of the National Defense Advisory Commission, was sued for divorce in Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Ethel H. Meigs, 1139 Sheridan road, Evanston. She charged desertion. The Meigs were married in 1912 and separated Jan. 25, 1940. They have three sons.

MR. DEWEY JOINS THE BAREFOOT BOY.

Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Wendell Willkie of Elwood, London, and Washington, were among the speakers at the Lincoln day meetings of the Republican party. Mr. Willkie, having put on his shoes and taken off his false face, may still be able to say and do things to shock some of his deluded supporters. We cannot predict. Meanwhile, he should be allowed to amuse as he did when he referred to the Republican party as the party of liberty since its birth. It took Mr. Willkie until 1940 to discover this and the discovery didn't seem to interest him very long.

What remains of the Republican party as an American party is opposed—in congress and out—to Mr. Roosevelt's dictatorship bill because it is destructive of that liberty to which the true party has been dedicated and for which its true followers will struggle without compromise.

The speech of Mr. Dewey was of more serious concern to the members of the Republican party as an American party. Mr. Willkie has made an unqualified betrayal of the party which he nominated him and of the platform on which he was nominated. Mr. Dewey, who, when he was a candidate for the nomination, appeared as a stalwart, unafraid of any of the issues to be met, has come around to a qualified betrayal. If it is not a betrayal of trust it is at least a betrayal of confidence.

Republicans in the midwest who made him their favorite candidate and who regretted to the last that the Willkie hoax was put over on the convention were not prepared to have him use the occasion of a Republican anniversary to give support to the dictatorship bill opposed by the faithful members of his party.

Mr. Dewey endeavored to soften the effect of what he was doing. He referred to the bill as dangerous and unwise in the form it was submitted by the administration. He remarked that at the insistence of the minority it had been carefully considered. He said that as an American he was proud of the fair hearing given to both sides by the committees of the house and the senate. He observed that democracy had been strengthened in the process. He foretold for the senate debate that it would be in the same temperate spirit as prevailed in the house.

"With some necessary further reservations of power to the people thru the congress," said Mr. Dewey, "I am satisfied that the house bill will be adopted. Speaking for myself alone, I hope it will be. I also hope it will be in such form that it can be adopted with the support of both parties, serving notice on the world that the American democracy in full flower is a strong and united nation."

Mr. Dewey knows that if the bill was dangerous and unwise when introduced it was dangerous and unwise when it passed the house. He knows that evil was not taken out of it by amendment. He knows that Senator Clark, the Missouri Democrat, speaks the truth when he says the only amendment which could make the bill safe would be one striking out its enacting clause.

Mr. Dewey is a candidate for governor of New York. It is his opinion, and in it he may be right, that no politician could present himself in the present unbalanced mood of the New York electorate as an American candidate and feel that the people would support him. That is a most unfortunate state of affairs, if it is true, and Mr. Dewey apparently is convinced of its truth. To become a candidate for governor of New York he has followed Mr. Willkie into the ranks of his majesty's loyal opposition and opposed to nothing the third term incumbent wants.

This may make Mr. Dewey a strong candidate for governor of New York. If the Republican party remains an American party it will not make Mr. Dewey a candidate for President of the United States. He has taken his chances on Albany and lost his chances on Washington.

MEDICAL MUSIC.

The other night the Chicago Symphony orchestra made known to the world a work by Mr. Carl Esbert which is described as a musical interpretation of the rôle of vitamins in the fight against disease. Our Dr. Barry says the emotional impact of the composition is strong. "The ecstasy one would experience at the disappearance of one's rickets in the face of Vitamin D is ably projected. There is another passage which may be interpreted as an expression of the satisfaction of humanity at the news that the keratinization of epithelial tissues may be arrested by doses of Vitamin A."

Dr. Barry says the audience was unruffled. That fact reflects no credit upon the listeners. They should have realized that the event marked the ending of one musical epoch and the beginning of another.

Never before in music has any one ever recovered from anything. All diseases and all wounds have been fatal. Every scratch has meant tetanus, every sneeze tuberculosis. Every bottle in the drug store has contained a fatal potion. This is curious, because the composers have been pretty fair clinicians. They are particularly good on cardiac ailments. Tristan's by the way.

heart as presented by the kettledrum was certainly decompensated. Mr. Richard Strauss must have spent many happy and profitable hours with his stethoscope in the Allgemeine Krankenhaus, but none of the patients described in his pieces ever got over what ailed them.

At last the light of medical learning has reached the concert hall. In time it will suffice even the opera house. Mimi will get well. So will Violetta. It was just something she ate. Lucia's complexes will yield to psychoanalysis. There will be an oxygen tent for Aida. Science marches on.

SOME LADIES MEET THE LAW.

A majority of the judges of the United States Supreme court must have had the shock of their lives when they read in the public prints that women whose acts were not, in the words of Mr. Justice Frankfurter, "enmeshed with contemporaneous violent conduct" had been given the bum's rush out of Capitol Hill and couldn't get a toe hold on either the 1st or the 14th amendments where they could withstand the capitol police.

The women were yelling, but since when has that been regarded as contemporaneous violent conduct in or about the halls of congress or anywhere else in Washington? They were mothers from various states. They were picketing against war bill 1776. They were exercising the privilege of free speech in a shrill tone. Picketing, even when most peaceful, is intended to embarrass. The women did not want to embarrass a beauty shop proprietor, a milk shop proprietor, a milk vendor, or a lumber concern. They wanted to embarrass some senators, including Illinois' own Mr. Lucas, who saved himself by ducking around the corner.

The women were not driving customers away from the halls of congress, they were not breaking windows, shooting doormen, secretaries, or waiters, and they were not wrecking the congressmen's automobiles. "And so," in the words of Mr. Justice Frankfurter, "the right of free speech cannot be denied by drawing from a trivial rough incident or a moment of animal exuberance the conclusion that otherwise peaceful picketing has the taint of force." O, just can't that conclusion be drawn? It draws itself on Capitol Hill.

The animal exuberance of the ladies did not get out of hand. None of them patted a senator in the eye or kicked one on the shin. No such trivial rough incident occurred. As good, peaceful picketers, the ladies tried to create a nuisance value for themselves. Congress can pass laws subjecting an innocent shopkeeper to exhibitions of the 1st and 14th amendments, but you can't do that to a congressman.

The next time the mothers try this we suggest they disguise themselves as milk wagon drivers, longshoremen, carpenters, or beauticians and see Mr. Justice Frankfurter first.

ACROSS THE PRAIRIES TO ALASKA.

The petition of Northwest Airlines, Inc., for an air route from Chicago across the prairie states and provinces of this country and Canada to Fairbanks, Alaska, should have immediate and favorable consideration. It is assumed that under the reciprocal arrangement recently worked out with Canadian air lines for other air lines crossing the international boundary, Canadian interests can be satisfied.

There is only one air line, recently opened, from the United States to Alaska, and that follows a Pacific route operated by Pan-American Airlines with flying boats. The proposed route across the prairies would be shorter by about 1,000 miles for all traffic originating in the middle west or the east.

Alaska and the northern Ontario mining region are today making more use of air transport, and particularly air express, than any other area. There are some 30 air lines within Alaska alone. With such a feeder system awaiting at the Fairbanks terminal, the proposed Northwest line would open an important trade territory to midwestern industry.

Another consideration in favor of establishment of the route is national defense. It is conceivable that a series of disasters might bar the normal route by sea to Alaska. In that event an overland air route, invulnerable to attack from the Pacific, would make defense of that rich territory much easier. The existence of civilian flying fields and other facilities would naturally be a great military advantage.

PRICE POLICY.

Any rise in commodity prices will have the effect of boosting the cost of the rearmament program. Also, increases in wholesale prices will result in a higher cost of living. Higher living costs would result in demands for wage increases, and higher labor costs would bring about more price increases. The government has good reasons for seeking to avert the starting of such a spiral. The cost of rearmament will be tremendous even at the present level of prices. Official Washington also fears that a price boom, once started, could not be headed off, in view of what has already been done of an inflationary nature.

It should be remembered, however, that much production is unprofitable at the prevailing level of prices. If the government wants the output of submarginal producers, it will have to pay for it. Where there is free competition, it would seem sensible for the government to place its orders and let supply and demand regulate price. If that is not done there will be some acute shortages later and to carry out its program the government will be forced to ration goods, of which with wise management there can be abundant supplies.

Editorial of the Day

TWELVE BUTTONS.
(Baltimore Evening Sun.)

Brig. Gen. George S. Patton, commander of the 2d armored division at Fort Benning, Ga., has designed a new uniform for tank officers. We present a sample drawing of the tunic copied from a photograph of the general wearing his sartorial creation.

This is supposed to be a service uniform, in a branch of the armed forces which is supposed to be more interested in practical mechanical gadgets than in brass buttons, especially unnecessary buttons. Yet this tunic for wear in a tank has no less than 12 buttons. Query for the general: Ever hear of zippers?

We are glad to learn that this garment "is still in the experimental stage and has not yet been adopted by the army."

MR. PEPYS CARRIES ON.

15th Feb.—And so I come to the end of a week in which I have not buzzed around the town at all except to go to and from my place of work at a snail's pace because of my recent ailment. There has been a taste of spring in some of these thawing days, but I went about all bundled up and wearing galoshes, as the doctor advised, and on Thursday, when it rained, I even carried an umbrella, but nobody stopped me to call me an appeaser, which is a term of abuse nowadays. Poor Mr. Chamberlain of London, you remember, carried an umbrella when he went to Munich in the vain hope of "peace in our time" and was called an appeaser because he delayed the war for a year, and his umbrella was jerked at.

Did miss the annual dinner and business meeting at my club because of not feeling fit for a night of revelry, and behold, I learned the members did argue with some show of temper over minor matters instead of passing every motion with a merry cheer. Which is another sign of the worrying and cantankerous mood of the times. But by staying home I did learn much about the way a nation can be wheedled and beguiled into giving away its freedom by reading a history book called "The Second Empire," and, indeed, I think that our congressmen and senators might do well to read this book. I hope to finish it soon and then relax from such studies with "Dr. Thorndyke's Crime File."

The second empire, according to this book, was a great time for wits in Paris, and one of their jokes is quoted. A writer named Alphonse Karr joined a dinner party of 12, making 13 in the group, which is unlucky, so he said to the others, "Do not worry. We are only 12 and a Karr (quart), meaning 12 and a quarter, both words sounding alike. Now many of us make puns like that every day and are thanked only by groans.

SIX MONTHS LATER.

We dreamed,
Six months ago,
Of all the bliss
That we would share on evenings
Such as this—
When, coming home perhaps a little tired,
We'd reach our private nook
And be inspired
To newer, brighter thoughts
That wrapped us in
And kept us safe from Outer dark and din.
Ah, how we planned,
Those short six months ago,
The little ways we'd teach our love
To grow.

But now we've learned there is no need to teach!
Love thrives on its own self—
And it can reach the heights untutored;
Only lovers know
Just how this is and why it can be so!
Perhaps, we thought,
We're dreaming far too much —
Perhaps our dreams and living
Cannot touch!
But these six months
Have seen reality
Go far beyond the dreams of you and me.
Our first mark passed, we sit here,
Hand in hand,
And smile to know it's better than we planned!

The Source of Charley Horse.

Ralph Noel's suggestion (Feb. 8) of definition No. 6 in 1913 Webster's as the origin of Charley horse is unquestionably correct and goes further into the antiquity of American colloquials than he probably supposes.

On page 191 of volume VII. of "Photographic History of the Civil War," by Francis Trevelyan Miller, is a photograph, taken in 1863 at Vicksburg, Miss., of two soldiers being disciplined on a Charley horse. This instrument of correction was nothing more than an oversize carpenter's sawhorse having legs six feet high; upon which the luckless soldier was forced to sit in an astride manner. The irritation so produced, as Cervantes would say, "in that portion of the human body provided by nature for the ease and comfort of mankind," was doubtless excruciating.

When a soldier appeared in camp with an accented limp or an unusual soreness in the seat of rest his comrades understood perfectly when he told them that he had been "riding the Charley horse."

[But why "Charley"? In old English vagabonds' and mummery's slang, we suspect, it carried some suggestion of fraud, trickery, or negligence of duty. Thus the Charley horse became a punishment for malingering soldiers.]

THE ANCIENT LYRE.

(Homer, 1309 B. C.)

Sang thou, O Homer, in those early days
With knowledge in your heart that what you sang
Would place you foremost in the ranks of praise
Down all the centuries? Or did you twang
Your harp with cheerful disregard of fame,
Content and joyful that the ears you reached
Could share the glory of your godlike flame
And triumph in the echoes they beseeched?
Had you faint notion in your robust soul
That temples, theories, empires, then unknown,
Would rise and crumble; still the world extol
As unsurpassed your epic sweep and tone?
Ah, had you heeded what there was to come,
Of stranger mortals had you then to stum!

FIOssie Takes Up Bowling.

I got tired of being a "bawling widow," so I took up the sport myself. For a long time I was horribly embarrassed by my low score—until I learned how to count. You just put a One Or Two in front Of the number Of pins you knock down!

There is a poem which was written in the year 1425 consisting of 24,000 lines. Does the Linemaster know of a longer one?

[He doesn't even know this one, and hopes that it never drops off a library shelf on his head. Was it by John Lydgate?]

We feel better now. We've just dug down into a box of souvenirs and yanked out a Wendell Willkie campaign button to be chucked into the waste basket.

TOXIC GOITER OF CHILDHOOD.

CAN goiter be treated medically or must the poison producing gland be removed? While iodine has been found capable of relieving immediate toxic symptoms, nevertheless, this plan of treatment—for the most part—has been utilized to prepare the patient for surgery. There is no doubt about the value of this procedure when the structure is "out of bounds," producing enough secretion to practically destroy the patient by forcing him to burn up his own tissues.

Does this gland ever become dangerously disturbed in childhood? Yes, occasionally. While instances have been reported under 5 years of age, the majority will occur about the time of puberty, or during adolescence. Girls are affected at least three times as often as boys.

Curiously enough, in many localities the "protruding eyeballs" type is found. The fact that few cases are seen in rural areas indicates that the hustle and bustle; the noise, excitement, and hurry of city life play a part.

But is operation always advisable, particularly with these young people? The fact of the matter is that we do not know what starts the "runaway" tendency. It would seem reasonable to assume, therefore, that if we can correct body hygiene—at least with the thought of reestablishing a normal balance of functions—an abatement of symptoms might be brought about.

Point one is to eradicate all emotional upsets. If this means a visit to a relative in some distant, quiet community, well and good. Certainly, busy children's wards in public hospitals are far from serene. Later some attention may be paid to the diet, which should be rich in nourishment, so as to avoid loss of weight. Generous amounts of proteins will be required, otherwise the quantity needed for growth may not be available. Not infrequently sedatives will be helpful and some of the drugs of the barbituric acid series may be resorted to.

Then comes the rôle of iodine and, with its cautious administration, toxic signs may disappear. Nevertheless, its employment is always with the mental reservation that surgery may be demanded if the drug loses its grip. Sometimes it will be possible to ease all manifestations so completely that recovery will follow without further aid.

Norman Nixon relates the history of a 7 year old girl who exhibited a slight thyroid enlargement, a rapid pulse, and marked tremors. Because of bad tonsils and adenoids, these structures were extirpated first of all. The administration of Lugol's solution [iodine] was then begun and continued for several weeks. The child returned to normal promptly and at 13 years of age had experienced no further difficulty.

Those who present only mild symptoms will respond to this form of drug therapy. More severe cases will not. This emphasizes the importance of detecting trouble at an early date.

This brings up the question—how much nervousness in youngsters is due to thyroid disease or to some other constitutional ailment? Any child approaching puberty, who has an abnormally rapid pulse, with tremors which are noted when the arm is held away from the body and the fingers extended—should be studied thoroughly to make certain that the neck glands are not involved. A metabolism test should point to the diagnosis and clear the way for proper treatment.

WANTS.

P. N. writes: 1. What is the cause of warts? 2. What is the best way to have them removed?

REPLY.
1. A virus infection is responsible.
2. These blemishes may disappear spontaneously or after soaking the hands for a long period—two or three hours—in hot, strong water. Other methods employed include cautery, some burning chemical, or the electric needle. Surgery is rarely required.

MESSAGE.

H. C. writes: Is massage advisable in sciatica?

REPLY.
Helpful in some cases. Heat, stretching the nerve, and alcohol injections are also recommended. If the origin of the trouble is in the lower portion of the spinal cord, local treatment in all probability will be useless.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 22.

1. The sport having the largest attendance in the United States is Basketball. Football. Baseball. Hockey.
2. The strongest structural material, weight for weight, is Steel. Mahogany. Wrought iron. Flywood.
3. Which of the following great caves is also the name of a chicken? Mammoth. Wyandotte.
4. During a strenuous football game last autumn, one of the players lost 12 pounds in weight. Since this was practically all in the form of perspiration and exhaled moisture in his breath, approximately how many quarts of water did he lose? 2 4 6 8.
5. If an uncle were to die and leave you a quarter section of rich farm land, how many acres would you thus inherit? 40 80 160 320.
6. Below are listed five chemical compounds of sodium. In the right hand column are the common names of these chemical substances. You are entitled to one point for each correct matching the technical names with their popular names:
(a) Sodium thiosulfate (v) Baking soda
(b) Sodium chloride (vi) Photographer's hypo
(c) Sodium hydroxide (x) Table salt
(d) Sodium bicarbonate (y) Lye
(e) Sodium carbonate (z) Washing soda

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-5, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. (Note—the last question counts five points.)

A LOOK AHEAD.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—We are about to guarantee not only England's victory but also the defeat of every aggressor nation on earth. Our aid will restore freedom to the millions now enslaved by Germany and will eventually [we hope] bring about a just and lasting peace, so that everybody everywhere will be able to enjoy the American way of life or at least a close resemblance to it.

To every starry eyed humanitarian this is a beautiful vision and this country's destiny as emancipator of the world is near at hand. Our President is certain of it.

The cost of this guarantee of world-wide freedom? It is nothing. We merely give the President totalitarian powers and send our armaments abroad, thereby creating prosperity here thru their manufacture. This will assure victory for England, insure this country against invasion, free the world of aggressors, and fulfill our destiny. Poppycock!

The cost in bloodshed, our blood, in money, our money, in privation, and years of struggle and misery stagger the imagination! We can't afford to let the arms we give Britain fall into Hitler's hands, so we must insure her victory with our soldiers. Britain can't defeat Germany without invading Europe and that she cannot do without our soldiers. Before we're thru we will have to beat Germany, Italy, Japan, and most likely Russia, too, as it is also an aggressor power at odds with our economy. You stated in a Sunday editorial that it would take five years. I hope you exaggerate. I think you underestimate. When the senate passes bill 1776 the die will be cast. Then let us hope that unborn generations of the future will benefit by our sacrifices. Or is there possibility that we will in our time?

ROSWELL D. FENDER.

WILLIE DEFENDED.

Clinton, Ill., Feb. 11.—I followed your prediction campaign support of Wendell L. Willkie but I cannot follow your post-election campaign of vilification apparently aimed to drive him into disrepute. Willkie has shown himself to me to be honest, brave and squarely for national unity, placing America above his personal ambitions. He has also shown astute foresight of the immediate future. In the long run, Wendell L. Willkie will make a better name for himself than you will make for the editorial department of The Chicago Tribune.
C. P. Jor.

RESENTFUL.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Mr. Churchill won't have to ask for our armies when the Germans bomb our ships laden with armaments for Britain, as this country will automatically enter the war and voluntarily send our armies. That is merely Churchill-Roosevelt strategy. I am deeply resentful of this dupe rôle America is again playing for Britain and am praying, as should all sincere Americans, for a return of a good old American republic and an honest-to-goodness, wholly American President.

CAMP FORREST.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 10.—I wish to commend your printing of the Camp Forrest pictures this morning. I think a great many people do not realize the amount of work necessary to build these camps. They picture a sag of tents thrown up over night, and wonder why months of construction should be required. I'd like to call to your attention the fact that Camp Forrest will have a water supply system sufficient for a city of 30,000 inhabitants. This system includes a pumping station on the Elk river, four miles of 20 inch pipe line from the station to the filtration plant in the center of camp, and a high pressure pumping plant which pumps the water from the filtered water storage basin into the distribution system which extends over the camp area, two miles wide and four miles long. There will also be a sewage treatment and disposal plant. Either of these systems if built for a city under ordinary conditions would have required 8 to 10 months to complete, yet Camp Forrest's plants are finished in half the time. Somebody deserves some credit for that. How about some pictures of them, too?

CASUALTIES AHEAD.

Oak Park, Ill., Feb. 11.—Your cartoons alone should have converted every American to a fight against American dictatorship and foreign war. In THE TRIBUNE for Feb. 10 was a statement by Senator Wheeler regarding identification tags and coffins. Significant as the statement is, it is almost buried amid other significant statements. Why not play it up and keep playing it up? Get all the facts. Make it simple. Make it plain, plain enough that even the college graduate can get it. The laboring man should know that this thing is important. He understands a racket when he sees one. But there are thousands of Americans still saying that it can't happen here. For heaven's sake, give us a headline on coffins and a coffin article with nothing but.

South America Calls; Is Heard by Chicagoans

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE air lanes above South America are buzzing with traffic this winter as business and pleasure call North Americans southward. Two seats in an air liner that will leave Miami on Feb. 27 for the west coast of the continent to the south will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John H. Noyes of Lake Forest. Their tour around the continent is to be a pleasure trip. Business will take Frank McNair over some of the same territory less than a month later. Mr. McNair usually takes a midwinter trip or cruise to some interesting country with one of his daughters, Mrs. Frank S. Sims or Mrs. Glendon Gerlach, as his companion. On this trip, however, Mr. McNair's fellow travelers will be other members of a board appointed by the National Research Council to make a government survey of Latin American industry. They depart on March 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Noyes' itinerary will include a week's visit in Rio and Buenos Aires and several inland trips. While they are away, Lieut. Commander R. Andrew Brown, head of the naval reserve signal school, will occupy their home.

Dinner-Dance Being Given for Miss Hubbard Tonight

A dinner-dance the Joseph T. Bowens had planned for debutante Marie Merrill Hubbard and that has been postponed several times will be given tonight even the Mrs. Bowen is at her winter home near Castle Hot Springs, Ariz. Mr. Bowen will do the honors for both himself and his wife at their home in Lake Forest. Miss Hubbard is a daughter of Mrs. Merrill Hubbard of Lake Forest. Mr. and Mrs. George Dapples (Florence Hermes), who have a little house in Lake Delavan, Wis., are entertaining at cocktails there this afternoon for their week-end guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Upham Jr. The young people who usually go to Lake Geneva and Delavan for winter week-ends have been invited to the party. At a valentine tea, yesterday in their home in Evanston, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Keeley announced the engagement of their younger daughter, Joan, to John Frederick Corcoran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Corcoran of New York City. Miss Keeley came for the party from New York, where she has been following a business career since her graduation from Barnard college in 1940. Mr. Corcoran attended the Trinity school in New York and received his degree in 1937 from Colgate university. After the wedding, which is planned for June, he will make a home for his bride in New York.

Rowe-Aldrich Wedding Takes Place This Afternoon

Miss Cynthia Aldrich and David Prescott Rowe will be married at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of Christ church, Winnetka. The Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard will perform the ceremony, and later the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. Anderson Aldrich, will give a small reception in their home in Winnetka. Miss Aldrich will have her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert A. Aldrich, and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. James Edward Hosack of New York, as her bridesmaids. Miss Josephine Aldrich will be maid of honor. Mr. Rowe's step sister, Muriel Lawrence, will serve as junior bridesmaid. Morris Eddy will be best man for Mr. Rowe, whose parents are Samuel Davis Rowe of Barrington and Mrs. Elizabeth Eddy Rowe of New York. Robert A. Aldrich, Ashton Graham, James Fitzmorris, Lewis Wheeler of St. Joseph, Mo., and Cyrus Quinn form the corps of ushers. Mr. Rowe and his bride will reside on the north side.

A round of parties is being given in Washington, D. C., for Miss Nancy Leiter, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Leiter of Washington and Chicago, and Charles Thomas Clagett, who are to be married next Saturday. Miss Mabel Boardman gave a dinner for them last night and Mrs. Randall Hagner is entertaining for them tonight. Mrs. Edward B. McLean is giving a dinner tomorrow. Admiral and Mrs. George Pettigrew will entertain similarly on Tuesday. The James McSherry Winstalls have planned a party for Wednesday night. Mrs. Leiter will give the bridal dinner at the Sulgrave club next Friday.

Rosamond Ely Patterson to Be Married on March 1

Following her marriage on March 1 to John Stone Pedersen, Miss Rosamond Ely Patterson, daughter of Mrs. John B. Patterson of Pentwater, Mich., will be settling an apartment on Chicago's north side. Her engagement to the son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Pedersen of Bartow, Fla., was announced recently by Mrs. Patterson. Miss Patterson attended the School of Domestic Arts and Sciences in 1933 and 1934, and the University of Michigan. Her fiancé, a "old enthusiast," sails regularly on the Tahuna, the yacht owned by Henry Babson and Joseph Moller. He attended the University of Florida.

Bibliophiles always are on the lookout for the White Elephant Rummage shop's annual book sales. Every so often a choice volume or first edition is picked up from the stocks that are contributed by the shop's committee and their friends. In the 3,000 books to be disposed of next Tuesday at the shop, 27 East Ohio street, are some collectors' items as well as current biographies, best sellers, and detective stories at bargain prices.

The largest contributor to the sale is Mrs. A. Harris Whiting, whose library comprised nearly a thousand works. Mrs. William B. Greenlee and Miss Helen Gurley are other contributors.

Future Fashions in Suit, Dress, and Pajama from Hollywood

Now Hollywood seeks recognition as the world's style center. Pictured are three stars of the cinema in garments that were displayed at the million dollar Fashion Futures show. At the left is Mary Martin in a dressmaker suit made of a soft light wool in honey beige. The patch pockets are interestingly detailed and the wrist length jacket buttons up the front. In the center Mary Astor is shown in a dinner costume of heavy sheer crepe in a soft stone blue, and at the right Rita Hayworth is in a one piece patio pajama of pimento jersey with a draped girle of red.

Good Morning!

That year of compulsory army training isn't going to look so bad to our boys after they see "Buck Privates." [Whoops! Look at the beautiful hostesses!]

This farce comedy is in the interests of national defense, and along with the hullabaloo you are served some mighty interesting first hand information. . . . BUT don't get the idea that the piece is in any sense a "document," because it isn't. It's slapstick—and funny slapstick.

Especially is it funny while Bud Abbott and Lou Costello are on the scene—and they're seldom absent.

The story, which isn't really much of a story, is gagful. It takes American doughboys from various walks of life and transplants them in a training camp. . . . Here, how to be a gentleman and a soldier is drilled into them by highrups and top sergeants OVER one another! . . . Crap games [you'll DIE at one of em!], prize fights, private fights, romance, etc., comprise entertaining issues. . . . Too, there are the long-legged, ramrod-backed Andrews Sisters singing and dancing. Like 'em?

The picture runs for 84 minutes and the audience enjoys it for exactly that length of time.

Also on the screen—Kay Francis in "Play Girl."

See you tomorrow.

Looking & Hollywood By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 14.—Censorship, which causes the average movie-maker to quiver and gibber, is a fine thing in the eyes of René Clair, the noted Frenchman who is directing Mariette Dietrich's "Flame of New Orleans."

It's a fine thing because it's an obstacle. When the Hays office says you can't do something because it's bad, then you sharpen your wits and think of another way of doing the same thing, and it's usually a better way—subtler and more intelligent.

Aside from the Hays office rules, movie-making in Hollywood is about the same as it is anywhere else to Clair. The same kind of stages—bigger, perhaps, and with more elaborate equipment—but basically the same as in France, and with similar methods. "And the same bad air," he says. "I had no trouble at all in getting adjusted to Hollywood."

Clair, thin, incisive, pleasant, knows what he wants and will have nothing else. When shooting started Miss Dietrich had an idea or two about how things should be done, but Clair soon gently persuaded her he was boss.

In "Flame of New Orleans" the glamorous Mariette gets closer to being married than ever before in her screen career. She actually gets up to the altar in a stunning white wedding gown of a century ago before a lover stops the proceedings.

It's a big scene, this near-wedding of Dietrich's. A church with several hundred beautifully and carefully costumed extras. And a procession that's all wrong. "Undoubtedly," says Clair, "the New Orleans of this time still followed the European plan of a wedding, the bride-to-be coming in on the arm of the eldest male member of her family, and her fiancé coming in with the eldest female member of his. But we've decided that people might complain about this as being all wrong, so we're following the conventional plan. Anyhow, the wedding never comes off."

The Universal studio is at the moment the busiest in Hollywood, with so many extras being used in so many big productions that parking space in the lots across the highway is at a premium. A half dozen companies are working—among them Clair's, Frank Lloyd's, and Gregory La Cava's.

Lloyd is out on the back lot, shooting exteriors of Loretta Young's "Lady from Cheyenne." He had the company on location at Mojave, where he got all his key shots in three days, and now he's tying this material together on Universal's 15 year old western street.

Miss Young, when the shooting is over, will head back to New York and her husband, Adman Tom Lewis, there to stay and take some dancing lessons until it's time to begin on "Ballarina." Miss Young's first ambition, incidentally, was to become a dancer like Pavlova.

"Kind of hard, isn't it, being a husbandless bride?" I query. "Yes," she says. "But we knew what we were in for before we did it, and it's working out all right."

Charlie Chaplin, who once made "Shoulder Arms," asked for a private showing of the Bud Abbott-Lou Costello "Buck Privates" and laughed his head off. Said Costello is the best comedy find in many a moon. . . . Leni Lynn's first job with Republic will be a musical titled "Angels Without Wings." . . . Young Gene Reynolds has been signed by Paramount for a rôle in "Senate Page Boys." He's the lad Metro dug up for the boy part in "The Yearling," but he grew out of it waiting for the picture to get started. . . . Jackie Cooper still intends to go to college—but movie business is so good he has postponed matriculation for three years. . . . C. B. De Mille tried to get, by cable, Rex Harrison for the lead in "Reap the Wild Wind." Harrison's the Briton who did such a fine job in "Night Train." He replied to C. B. that he'd come if De Mille would postpone the picture until the war's over. . . .

Young Pianist Proves Worthy of Noted Father

Concert by the Fine Art orchestra, Nicolai Malko, conductor; Boris Barer, pianist; presented in Amalgamated Center auditorium, Friday evening, Feb. 14, 1941. The program: Overture, from Concerto Grosso No. 2 [Koechel No. 488] . . . Mozart Concerto, A major, for piano and orchestra . . . Beethoven Symphony No. 3, E-flat major ["Eroica"] . . . Beethoven

BY CECIL SMITH.

Within a few years there may be stirring competition between two generations of the pianistic Barer family. The brilliant achievements of Simon Barer, the Russian pianist who is to play with the Chicago Symphony orchestra on Feb. 25, are already well known. Last night Boris Barer, the 17 year old son of the noted artist, made his professional debut with Nicolai Malko and the Fine Art orchestra in the sixth of the series of 10 concerts at Amalgamated Center auditorium, 333 South Ashland boulevard.

From the very first notes of the solo part of Mozart's A major concerto it was evident that the son has inherited at least a large part of the father's gifts.

Perhaps the most remarkable feature of Boris Barer's performance was the remarkably mature control of musical means which he almost unflinchingly displayed. Mozart never wrote a sunnier, more affable piece of music than this especially melodious concerto. The young pianist seemed to understand its friendliness and its unassuming good nature, for he never forced his tone, nor tried to imbue the music with a false sense of the dramatic, nor endeavored to turn the solo part into a mere vehicle of display.

Except for a tendency to let scale passages rush ahead too fast his technique is amazingly clear and dependable. There were not more than two or three brief moments of inaccurate finger articulation, and the pedaling was exemplary. Phrases sang lyrically, the rhythm moved with a good, easy flow—in other words, you are not likely to hear of a more satisfying performance by a 17 year old boy any time in the next 10 years. If his studies are as well guided in the future as they have been up until now he should succeed in becoming a prominent, and perhaps a famous, concert pianist.

Mr. Malko provided as secure and as musical an accompaniment as any soloist could wish. After the concerto was over he made the venturesome experiment of attempting Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony with his orchestra of a few more than 30 players.

This was the first time I had had occasion to feel at all unhappy about one of Mr. Malko's performances. The conductor's interpretation was admirable, but our ears have become too accustomed to an epic sonority in this majestic work, and it was impossible not to observe that Mr. Malko's players were overstraining, even to the point sometimes of playing out of tune.

The program began with a tantalizingly brief excerpt from a Corelli concerto, warmly played by the string section.

Fancy Costume Jewelry Stirs Fashion Sleuth

BY REA SEEGER.

The smartest sleuths are frantically prophesying an unprecedented excitement over spring suits. So the costume jewelers have already launched a fanfare about suit jewelry. . . . Jewelry that doesn't click on anything but the lapel of a sleek suit jacket or on the flap or edge of a chest pocket. Nor is such loot the jocular stuff of last season. The designers turned back the pages of fashion books and copied the jingling, important jewelry worn by the dashing regency bucks and blades, fobs, chains, seals, and buttons with plenty of swagger.

High colored enamel and gold metal, sections of rather heavy mesh pendants with intaglios, old fashioned carnelian seals, with a bit of handsome engraving, all make this suit jewelry. There are a few good looking bracelets made of the same metal and enamel, and earrings also of the same decade of elegance and charm. One pair especially in shining gold metal in the shape of clenched fists, sounds masculine but not too much so, and they'll provoke plenty of chuckles from the observing critics.

Other pieces are the watch chains slung right off the paunches of the old roistering gallants of the regency. . . . massive links with pendants and charms of heavy outlines. It is all sturdy masculine stuff, handsome, wordily but effective when worn, for instance, as the fastening device for top capes of wool or the shorter capes of fur.

If you can dig round in the attic and find authentic pieces handed down from some swash buckling gay blade of an ancestor all the better, if you can't, see this new collection and rejoice over the clever copies and adaptations.

Who Is This Girl?

By Helen Topping Miller

Copyright 1941, by Helen Topping Miller

SYNOPSIS

Dan McCullough, manager of the ranch, San Mateo, falls in love with Storm, whom he meets at the New York apartment of Harp Greenlee, owner of the ranch. Dan has come east to tell Harp and his lawyer, Steele Dunlap, that he needs money to fight Dene, who is trying to shut off the ranch's water supply. When Steele Dunlap, whose artist's instinct is disturbed by the girl's beauty, tells him that Storm is the daughter of Harp's mother and that Harp says she is his niece, Mac is upset. He knows Harp has no niece, and has been entangled with many women of shady character. He decides to have it out with Harp as to just who Storm is, but when he goes in to talk to him he finds Harp dead. Storm tells Mac that she knows she is not Harp's niece, but she doesn't know who she is. Harp placed her in a car when he was 15 years old, and she has been wandering ever since. She is now 20, Harp will storm San Mateo and a locked in without a key, but when Dunlap tells her that it is Harp's father who is paying off his latest friend, she becomes infuriated, refuses the inheritance and goes back to the agent. Mac trains her there, but Mother Storm tells him a man claiming to be Storm's father had come to the convent two days before and Storm left with him. She refuses to tell Mac the man's name. Mac learns that Dunlap has flown to San Mateo, and follows him. The people at the ranch tell Mac that Dunlap has taken over the ranch and determined to protect Storm's rights. Mac goes over to demand an explanation from Dana. On the way he is delayed rescuing Francis Abbey from drowning and delirium tremens.

NEW MANAGER

INSTALLMENT XXXX

Plume and old Bart were nowhere in sight. For Plume to be dismounted was extraordinary. It was an old joke on San Mateo that Plume saddled up to fetch a bucket of water from the windmill.

Mac pulled up beside the wagon.

"Where's Plume?"

"Down yonder, to the road, talking to them fellows in the car."

Mac looked out down the slope toward where a little crooked road ran. A road, that for 20 years had been seldom used. Once two friends had built and fenced it, but for many years bitter enmity had kept it closed, grown to squaw weed and cactus and knots of wire grass. He saw the long old car there, with Plume and Bart standing near. He walked his horse that way, following the fence, his hat squared on his head, his face dark and set.

The men in the car looked up, Steele Dunlap smiling too affably. Humphrey Dane's face as leathery and inscrutable, under his dusty black hat, as the face of an image. Dane was a huge man, big boned, without an ounce of fat, sinewy and acrid, where Harp Greenlee had been soft and gurgling. He scowled at McCullough, jerked his head briefly.

"Hello, Mac," Dunlap were a sheepskin-lined coat, and no tie as a concession to the informality of the plains. "Just talking things over with the boys here."

"So I see," McCullough spoke curtly, sitting motionless in his saddle.

"You know Dane, of course?"

"Yes, I know Dane."

"Terrell tells me that you understand the situation here, Mac." Dunlap's suavity was not disturbed by the brooding distrust, the animosity in the eyes of the three men from San Mateo. "Dane is taking over the management of the place, by arrangement with the owner."

"So you arranged with the owner, did you? You didn't lose any time."

"Why lose time?" Dunlap were unperturbed by the attack. "We were on our way to talk things over with you. Dane agrees to let things go on here as they are, for the present. He may want to make changes later, after there has been an appraisal and an inventory, but for the time being you boys will carry on as you have been doing."

Mac's brows drew up. "If Humphrey Dane has anything to say to me, let him say it, Dunlap."

"What the hell?" snarled Dane. "Steele's my lawyer. I don't want any trouble with you, McCullough. That's why I'm letting you stay on San Mateo, till we get everything settled."

"It didn't occur to you that I might not choose to be left on San Mateo?"

"Of course, Mac, if you feel that way—if you want to let the owner down—Dunlap's tone was insistent, condescending.

"When I make a deal with a man, I don't make it thru a third party. You spoke about an inventory. I suppose you'll exclude from that inventory the truck load of wool I saw Dane's hands running off of this place this morning?"

"I've tried to make plain to you, Mac, that Dane is in charge here. If you choose to be agreeable, things will go on as they are. Otherwise—"

"I don't choose to be agreeable, Dunlap, to any arrangement that makes me a cowed slave, a dunkey to Hump Dane. He knows that. And these boys will stick with me."

"You're damn tootin'," said old Bart fervently.

"You're going to disappoint the owner of San Mateo, Mac. I had an idea that you'd be willing to make concessions to protect her interest."

"When I can protect them in the right manner, yes, but I'm not satisfied with anything about this business. I want to see signed papers laid on the table. Bluntly, Dunlap, I want something beside your word—or Dane's."

"Come over to my place, then, if you've got to be convinced," Dane snapped. "But if you want to be so damn independent, you can go ahead and quit, all of you. I can get plenty of men to tend sheep for me."

"I quit—last night, when they told me you were running this place. But Harp left me in charge of San Mateo. And I'm not turning over the property till I'm satisfied about the legal aspects of this affair."

"You're over then, and you can see all the legal aspects. And you boys get along with your work. You'll hear from me later—what I want you to do."

The car moved away. McCullough wheeled his horse and rode back to the wagon, waiting there till Plume and Bart came puffing up, walking awkwardly in their high boots.

"And you two walked down to listen to those two crooks!"

"They rode up and tooted, Mac. We didn't know what else to do."

"Next time they drive up and toot, let 'em toot. Are you with me, or aren't you?"

"Sure, we're with you," Bart was earnest and troubled. "We ain't working for Hump Dane, not unless you stick too."

"All right. I'm riding over to Dane's place now. I'll have the thing out. Something will be settled when I come back. You can work now or not."

"This here stock has got to be took care of. There's weather up yonder, to northward. Wouldn't surprise me to have snow by night."

"That's up to you. And there's that girl to consider. She still owns this ranch. Dane admitted that he didn't own it."

"He'll crook her out of it, somehow, if that Dunlap don't work another crookedness and get Steele Dunlap to back him. Look here, Mac. When you go over there, you raise some hell about them selves. We're responsible for the stock on this place till we turn it over to somebody legal."

"There are a lot of things to settle with Dane. Now's as good a time as any."

"Well, take it kind of easy, Mac. He's mean and you're awful quick on the trigger."

"Don't worry about me, Plume. Be colder before you get back."

"Here. You take along any heavy coat. Be colder before you get back." He rode away, leaving the two gray-haired men looking after him soberly. Their loyalty was a responsibility. They had accepted him without reservation, though he was more than 20 years the junior of either. Both had been on the ranch since first Harp Greenlee split with Dane and started out on his own. For 16 years San Mateo had been their home. Separated from it, they would be lost, groping and confused as old men are, torn from what has been their accustomed world. If they were uprooted they would have to find roots again.

But when he rode away from these ragged hills, Mac knew, he must ride far. Any other thought was intolerable now. And if Plume and Mom and Bart and probably Lank chose to tie their bedrolls and gather together their saddles and what gear and plunder they owned and follow—that thought was something to make a man pause and go slowly, consider all the angles.

And in these four years he had learned to love the wide spaces of San Mateo, the eroded stretches of thin, rough soil, the deep valley where the grass grew tall and young. Hereafter, the scrubby hillsides grown to cedar and strewn with rock, where the sheep and goats wandered. He loved the temperamental river that lay parched and dry in summer, with only a feeble trickle over its blazing sands, and then when the rains came, leaped alive, roiling, untamed, foaming down from the hills, spreading over the low places.

He mounted the ridge, noted the torn edge of the gulch where Francis Abbey had gone over, heard the ravine running full now, weeds and roots and churning whitish mud swirling down its flooded current. Small chance for Abbey if he were down there now.

Mac decided to ride around and see how Abbey fared. It would take an hour longer, but Steele and Dane could wait. They had a long way to go around, anyway, by the rough, crooked road. The ford at Dane's boundary would be impassable now, with water running high.

Ruth Lodge Gives Party for Crippled Children

Women from the Ruth Lodge for Crippled Children gave a Valentine's day party for children in the Spaulding school. Mrs. Ruth Pearlman was chairman of the party. Another party, for 120 crippled children, was given by the Women of Rotary in the Illinois Research hospital. Mrs. Robert Thomson was chairman of arrangements.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

William Frederick Hoppe, who took his first billiard stance on a soap box at the age of 12, is the greatest cueist the old game ever has seen. Last night, before an enthusiastic audience of more than 1,500, the 33-year-old New Yorker won his second consecutive world's three cushion championship by defeating his oldest rival, Jake Schaefer of Chicago, 50 to 34, in 39 innings in Ben-singer's arena.

It was the 38th victory in 39 starts of world competition for the man who has been to billiards what Bob Jones and Walter Hagen have been to golf, Babe Ruth to baseball, and Bill Tilden to tennis. Prior to last Tuesday evening, when Walker Cochran of San Francisco broke Hoppe's consecutive string at 35 straight, the silver thatched Willie had been invincible.

Willie Reels Off 11.
The battle started out as the it was going to be a slug one down to the finish, but all prospect of that faded in the Hoppe portion of the 5th inning, wherein the champion ran 11, the high effort of the match and Bill's best of the meet. That began with a shot in which Willie called upon the bridge and included one in which he barely got a hit off of the red ball. He then drew a shot for the 11th billiard, and in missing his try for 12, left his cue ball frozen on the side rail. Despite this, Schaefer came back with a 5 to cut Willie's lead to 16 to 8, but thereafter he never came closer than 16 to 12.

A kiss gave Hoppe the first two points in the 10th, and he collected an important five in the 12th. The champion arranged an intermission in the 15th, at which time he led, 25 to 15. Following the recess, he increased his margin to 37 to 19, and Jake never came closer than 47 to 33 thru the finish.

It's Worth $2,500.
Hoppe finished the tournament with a record of 16 won and one lost, emerging with a grand average of 11.03 against Schaefer's 15 triumphs and two losses, and average of 1.023. Willie collected first prize of $2,500, and Jake took the runner-up share of $1,800.

Score by Innings:

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

FRANKIE ALBERT, Stanford's All-American quarter back, has given up rugby because he had to undergo a minor throat operation. . . . His stay in the hospital received scant notice, as they say in What Cheer, Ia., but it would have been headline stuff in the autumnal madness. . . . The strike of grooms and stable hands at Santa Anita one day last week was insignificant compared with the woes of Slip Madigan and his associates in the Golden Gate Turf club across the bay from San Francisco. . . . They can't get the bettors off their wallets. . . . Bud Taylor, once bantamweight champion is working as a day laborer in a Terre Haute, Ind., boiler factory. . . . Johnny Schleich, who was elected to last year's All-Star football squad from Santa Clara, is trying to knock off 40 pounds of extra suit in preparation for his debut with Charles Bidwill's Chicago Cardinals next fall. . . . Schleich, who never was too sure about figures, says his contract calls for a salary somewhere between $4,000 and $8,000 a year. . . . Several days ago we printed an item about a college basketball player who was chased from a game on personal fouls in three and a half minutes. . . . Bill McKee of the Ashland, O., Times leaves us standing at the post with the revelation Huber McCuen, an Ashland college substitute, was bounced in one and a half minutes. . . . It's twins at the New Britain, Conn., home of Harry Jacunski, Green Bay end, and a new daughter, the third, at the home of Joe Laws, the Packers' veteran full back. . . . How come no one has mentioned that the University of Oklahoma should expect a brilliant season now that it has signed Dewey Luster as football coach? . . .

Congratulations to Frank Leahy and to Notre Dame on the new athletic union. . . . It's a combination certain to succeed. . . . Readers of this column may recall that in our report of the 1941 Sugar bowl game in New Orleans we had this line: "Frank Leahy's Boston college eleven, which today defeated a previously unbeaten team from Tennessee, was the best coached unit we have seen this season." . . . Leahy has proved his ability as a gridiron leader. . . . He combines all the attributes a great university can require of a man off the football field as well as on. . . . He will carry on where Elmer Layden left off. . . . We submit this as an important point.

The date of the Michigan-Michigan State football game next fall has been advanced one week to Sept. 27 at the request of Ann Arbor officials. . . . Northwestern university plans to try out the football rules committee suggestion of uniform playing numbers. . . . Under the proposed method backs will be numbered from 10 to 49 and linemen from 50 to 90, with each position having numbers in units of 10. . . . Ben Hogan, the Texan who led all 1940 golf money winners with earnings of more than $10,000, made his first winter tour four years ago with a total stake of $88. . . . Ben Chapman, Washington outfielder, is one of the most active gents in baseball. . . . In addition to playing basketball and golf he coaches football, referees basketball, and recently became part owner of a chain of bowling alleys in Montgomery, Ala., his home town. . . . When Bill Jones opens spring football practice at Nebraska March 1 his major assignment will be the development of a quarter back. . . . The Cornhuskers are losing three signal callers by graduation.

172 AWAIT CITY GOLDEN GLOVES FIGHTS MONDAY

Veterans, Newcomers to Box in Coliseum.

Tonight's Card

THE schedule of Golden Gloves' tournaments tonight follows:
Fort Smith, Ark., Southwest Times-Record finals.
Fort Worth, Tex., Star-Telegram quarter-finals.
Kokomo, Ind., Tribune semi-finals.
Oklahoma City, Okla., Oklahoman semi-finals.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
One hundred seventy-two amateur boxers are ready for the Chicago city Golden Gloves bouts which will be held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday in the Coliseum.

On Wednesday night each of Chicago's eight winners will receive a golden glove. They then will represent this city against the challenge of 43 other championship teams which will engage in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 24, 25, and 26.

Since expansion of Chicago's Golden Gloves tournament in 1939 to include other cities, this city never has failed to win at least one title in the Tournament of Champions. In 1939 Johnny Pleasant, from Chicago's south side, was the only local boxer to come thru the Tournament of Champions and win a diamond studded golden glove. Pleasant was a lightweight.

Three Win in 1940.
Last year three members of Chicago's city championship team went on to victory in the Tournament of Champions. These were Harold Dade, 112 pounds; Savor Canadeo, 147 pounds; and Cornelius Young, heavyweight. Dade is the only one of these boxers—all were from the C. Y. O.—who returns and he must win in the Coliseum next week in order to defend his Tournament of Champions title.

Two other Chicago city champions return, however. They are Ray Brown, 118 pounds, C. Y. O., and Hezlie Williams, 175 pound champion from the Savoy Athletic club.

You Remember AL.
Until Dade won in the Stadium last year Chicago had not had a champion in the 112 pound class since 1932 when Al Soukup took the flyweight honors. No Chicagoan has won in the featherweight division since 1935 when Andy Scrivani succeeded Al Nettlow of Detroit to that championship. In the 175 pound class Chicago's record is even worse. In 1933 Max Marek won the light heavyweight title and since then start as Joe Louis (Detroit), Joe Bauer (Cleveland), Carl Vinciguerra (Omaha), Jimmy Reeves (Cleveland), and Jimmy Richie (St. Louis) have whipped Chicago light heavyweights.

The three nights of fighting next week in the Coliseum should determine the chances of Chicago's team in the Stadium bouts which will be held in two rings and the first bouts will start at 7:30. One ring will be used on Tuesday and Wednesday and the Chicago finals Wednesday night will start at 8 o'clock.

A Lot Are Veterans.
The majority of Chicago's 172 boxers have had tournament experience either in the C. Y. O. annual meet or in Golden Gloves. However, only three of last year's group of heavyweights again are registered. These are Hal Raskin, Trifton's gym; Henry Leslie, Jewish People's institute; and Luke Baylock, Savoy A. C. Among the newcomers is another Savoy heavyweight, Clayton Woods, who is 6 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 202 pounds.

The lightweight division, with 41 entries, is largest. In addition to Jack Ballenger of the C. Y. O., other top-notch boxers are Stanley Stocking, Henli's gym; Travis Trotter, Savoy; Carmen Pinotte, Armour Square park; Joe Michaels, Franklin park; and Torsten Ahlbeck, Northwest gym. Illinois Tech has two boys in the city meet. Arthur Ellis will compete in the 118 pound class and Ivo Buddeke, who qualified thru the north side novice tournament, will fight in the light heavyweight division.

When the mathematics instructor asked the class how to find the exact center of a circle I did not reply. "Look for the little hole in the paper left by the compass point." —Avis Moke.

They'll Take Charge of the Fighting Irish

Notre Dame's football destinies were placed in the hands of this quartet yesterday when Frank Leahy (second from left) was appointed head coach and director of athletics to succeed Elmer Layden, resigned. Leahy, who was released from a five year contract by Boston college, announced at once that the three assistants pictured with him would accompany him to Notre Dame. They are (left to right) Ed McKeever, back field; Joe McArdle, line, and Johnny Druze, ends.

This is a closeup of Coach Leahy, who climaxed a brilliant season at Boston college by directing his men in a 19 to 13 victory over Tennessee in the Sugar bowl.

De Paul Loses to Creighton; Loyola Wins

BY EDWARD PRELL.

A tall group of sharpshooters from the Nebraska prairies, Creighton university of Omaha, last night gave the nearest exhibition of goal shooting seen on the Coliseum floor this season. It was De Paul's hard luck to run up against the Nebraskans, who won, 60 to 48, topping by 16 points the previous high score made against De Paul this season. Earlier, Loyola, after surmounting a lot of obstacles, prevailed over the City College of New York quintet, 44 to 43, in an overtime battle.

De Paul managed to stay even with Creighton for the first few minutes when Bob Wozny and Elmer Gainer did some effective firing under the basket. The Bluejays started rolling, drew away to an 18 to 10 lead after 10 minutes, and increased it to 28 to 18 at the intermission.

De Paul whittled Creighton's lead to 33 to 27 in the first four minutes of the second half. Then the Bluejays put on the pressure, breaking up De Paul plays and dashing down the court without a letup. In eight minutes they scored 19 points and built their lead to 52 to 33.

Behind for the first 34 minutes, Loyola went ahead, was tied, and three minutes from the finish lost the lead. A goal by Jack Stanton in the last minute gave the north siders a 41 to 41 tie in regulation time. Then they went out and won in overtime, 44 to 43.

Mickey Rottner, the little redhead who led Loyola's fourth quarter rally, broke the tie in the overtime by cutting in for a one handed shot back of the free throw line. Then he made the clinching point on a foul shot after Bill Holzman tied the score at 43 to 43, with a shot from the side.

BOSTON COLLEGE AIDS CHOSEN BY EX-IRISH TACKLE

He'll Sign Today as Coach-Director.

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 14 (Special). —Frank Leahy, 32 year old Boston college coach, today was named director of athletics and head football coach of the University of Notre Dame. He succeeds Elmer F. Layden, who resigned Feb. 3 after a successful seven year tenure to serve as commissioner of the National Football league.

Announcement was made late this afternoon by the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the university, following completion of negotiations by telephone. Leahy left Boston tonight and will arrive here to sign his contract tomorrow afternoon.

Informed that Leahy had indicated his contract would be for a long term, Father O'Donnell said it had never been the policy of Notre Dame to disclose the contents of any agreement. Father O'Donnell indicated, however, that a contract highly satisfactory to the university and to Leahy had been reached.

Has Brilliant Year in 1940.

The new Notre Dame athletic chief has had phenomenal success at Boston college where his 1940 team won all of its 10 regularly scheduled games and then defeated Tennessee, 19 to 13, in the Sugar bowl game in New Orleans. The previous year Boston won 9 out of 10 games in the regular season, losing to Florida, 7 to 0, and then dropping a postseason game to Clemson, 6 to 3.

A graduate of Notre Dame, Leahy won a letter at tackle with the undefeated eleven of 1929, but in 1930 was out of action much of the season due to injuries. These were the last two teams coached by the late Knute Rockne. He assisted Tommy Mills as line coach at Georgetown in 1931, then moved to Michigan State for one year as assistant to Jimmy Crowley. When the latter went to Fordham in 1933 Leahy moved with him, producing outstanding lines. These included the famous "seven blocks of granite" of 1936. He became head coach at Boston college in 1939, succeeding Gil Dobie.

Brings Boston Aids.

Leahy will bring along with him all his Boston college assistants, Ed McKeever, back field coach; Johnny Druze, end coach, and Joe McArdle, line coach. He will start Notre Dame's spring practice about March 7. McKeever, who was graduated from Texas Tech in 1934, attended Notre Dame for a year, but Druze and McArdle are Fordham products.

Status of the present assistant coaches will be settled at a conference tomorrow involving Leahy, Father O'Donnell, and the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C. S. C., vice president of the university and chairman of the faculty board in control of athletics. Joe Boland, line coach; Donald Chetl Grant, back field coach; Joe Bender, end coach, and Bill Cerney, B team coach, all have contracts which run to Aug. 1. Leahy's desire to work with his Boston college aids, however, may result in a clean sweep of the Notre Dame staff.

Released from Contract.

Leahy recently signed a five year contract with Boston college, from which he has been released. Father O'Donnell, in making today's announcement, thanked Boston college officials for their sympathetic cooperation. Father O'Donnell also thanked the faculty board in control of athletics for its "patient and painstaking."

TEN YARDS WORK ON MORE THAN BILLION IN SHIPS

New England Builders Are Rushing Vessels.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 14 (AP)—One hundred and sixty-seven "fighting ships and cargo vessels valued at $1,222,391,000 are under construction or in the preconstruction stages in 19 New England shipyards, the New England Council announced today.

Eight private yards are constructing 127 ships valued at $916,666,000, while the Boston and Portsmouth, N. H., navy yards are building 40 ships valued at $205,725,000, the council said. Among the ships under construction are destroyers, mine sweepers, cruisers, submarines, tenders, and cargo vessels.

The Boston navy yard is building 23 destroyers and tenders valued at $134,993,000, while 17 submarines valued at $70,732,000 are being built at the Portsmouth yard.

Ship Program Outlined.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP)—The maritime commission announced today the number of ships expected to be built at each of seven new yards in connection with the emergency construction program of 200 cargo vessels.

The commission's estimates follow: Oregon Shipbuilding company, Portland, Ore., 31 ships; California Shipbuilding company, Los Angeles, 31; Houston Shipbuilding company, Houston, Tex., 25; Alabama Dry Dock and Shipbuilding company, Mobile, Ala., 13; North Carolina Shipbuilding company, Wilmington, N. C., 25; Bethlehem Fairfield Shipbuilding, Inc., Baltimore, Md., 25; Louisiana Shipbuilding Co., Inc., New Orleans, 25.

The commission also announced the award of a contract for construction of six ship ways and other facilities to the Louisiana Shipbuilding company, at an estimated cost of $4,841,000.

Arranges to Buy 5 Vessels.

New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Italian Maritime Steamship company, a subsidiary of United States Steel corporation, today announced an agreement with the United States maritime commission for the purchase of eight type C3 steam driven turbine cargo vessels, the largest and fastest cargo vessels built under the maritime commission construction program.

The vessels were scheduled for delivery in the first half of 1942. Cost of construction was figured at about $3,800,000 each.

The C3 ships are about 9,300 gross tons, with a cargo capacity of about 10,000 tons and sustained sea speed of 16 1/2 knots.

Construction plans have been approved by the navy department as suitable for national defense purposes.

Four of the ships are being fabricated in the yards of the Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding corporation, Seattle, and four in the yards of the Western Pipe and Steel company, San Francisco.

BONDS PUT UNDER MOST PRESSURE SINCE LAST FALL

New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—Bond prices today underwent the severest hammering since last fall as traders and investors viewed with increasing alarm happenings in other parts of the world.

Losses ranged from 1 to 3 points among active rails, industrials, and utilities and up to 5 percent among inactive foreign issues. High priced domestic loans generally were steadier but here too declines predominated.

The Associated Press average of 20 rail bonds dropped .9 of a point to 60.3, a new 1941 loan, and 10 utilities used in the compilation averaged .3 of a point lower at 92.2, also a new low this year.

As in most sessions since the market has been skidding, turnover was comparatively light. High priced domestic loans were active on Thursday and ended down .232 of a point to 1.832 points.

Obligations of world powers directly in the news from abroad gave way hurriedly in the foreign dollar department.

Phillip State Bank Will

Pay 12 1/2 Pct. on Deposits

Arthur C. Lueder, state auditor, yesterday announced that he had authorized a 12 1/2 percent dividend amounting to $22,538, to the depositors of the Phillip State Bank & Trust company, Chicago. This was the second payment to be made since the bank closed, bringing the total amount paid thus far to 20 percent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

The Hongkong dollar advanced .07 cent to 40.00, the highest since the outbreak of the war. The Shanghai dollar was up .05 cent, and the Canadian dollar was up .05 cent. The Argentine peso dipped .03 cent.

WESTERN UNION NET $3,621,581; A 4 YEAR PEAK

1940 Earnings Equal to $3.46 a Share.

Western Union Telegraph company yesterday reported preliminary net income of $3,621,581, or $3.46 a share, for 1940, the company's largest earnings since 1935.

In the preceding year, net income amounted to $3,380,114, or $3.22 a share.

Net income in 1936 was $7,199,120, or $6.89 a share.

The company reported December net income of $770,994, compared with $551,346 in the same month of the preceding year.

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company realized net income of $1,730,539 in January, compared with $958,741 in the 1940 month.

Employed Bonus 8 Per Cent.

Company officials announced that an 8 per cent bonus would be paid to employees for January in accordance with the company's policy of determining wages and salaries on a prorated scale in relation to the average earnings of the preceding three months. The bonus for December also was 8 per cent.

Net income of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company for 1940 totaled $9,927,766, or $3.97 a share, John D. Biggers, president, announced.

The 1939 net income was $8,062,752, or $3.21 a share.

Biggers said the company's contract with General Motors corporation for supplying all of the automobile builder's safety glass and windshield requirements has been extended to 1944. The company has main offices in Toledo, O.

The upturn in purchases of new equipment by the country's railroads was reflected in reports of Lima Locomotive Works, Inc., and General Steel Castings corporation, both of which realized larger earnings in 1940.

Lima's Net Is $87,007.

Lima Locomotive, with general offices in Lima, O., reported net income of $87,007, or 41 cents a share, for the year, compared with a net loss of $134,326 in the preceding year.

Samuel G. Allen, chairman of the board, said that unfilled orders, exclusive of one large defense contract, amounted to $8,846,700, against $6,262,700, at the end of 1939.

General Steel Castings, maker of steel underframes for locomotives and other similar equipment, had 1940 net income of $1,061,196, compared with $5,661 in the preceding year.

The company's plant at Easton, Pa., and Granite City, Ill., Harrison Hoblitzelle, president, said that the present backlog of orders is the highest in the company's history, with the tonnage on the books as of Jan. 1 being more than four times as large as a year ago.

He reported that the company's main offices in Chicago, had net income of $752,378, or $4.14 a share, for the year ended Nov. 30, compared with $567,467, or $3.07 a share, in the preceding year. L. G. Blessing, president, announced.

Predicts a Good Year.

"If our shipments for the first two months of our fiscal year (December and January), which were 30 per cent greater than in the same period last year, and our unfilled orders are any criterion, we can look forward to another successful year," Blessing stated in the annual report to stockholders.

He reported that the company's new Chicago plant would be completed by April 1, but that the work of moving into it would require several months. He said the company would operate at both its present building and in the new plant for several months. The company manufactures soda fountains, ice cream freezers, and other similar products.

Day's Earnings Reports.

The following corporation net incomes were reported yesterday:

Stocks Topple 1 to 5 Points in Larger Sales

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—The stock market today took one of its worst tumbles in more than three months as volume of sales rose highest since Dec. 31. Market observers attributed the slump to increasing war tension in the orient and southeastern Europe.

Heavy industrials, including steel, motors, aircrafts, and specialties bore the brunt of selling which topped prices 1 to 5 points generally and as much as 3 in isolated cases.

The list dipped at the start, then revived under mild buying. Activity dwindled on the comeback but picked up in the final hour during which the largest turnover of the session was recorded.

Index at Low Since June 13.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 1.2 points to 38.8, a new low since June 13, last. It was the biggest day's recession for the composite since Nov. 6. Transfers of 933,740 shares compared with 642,940 yesterday.

In addition to increasing fears of an upset in the far east and a German push into Bulgaria, financial quarters expressed more apprehension over rising taxes.

Du Pont lost 5 points and Westinghouse Electric 4. Off 2 to more than 3 were United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Sears Roebuck, United Carbide, United States Gypsum, Kres, Philip Morris, Great Northern, American Can, Eastman Kodak, J. I. Case, and Allied Chemical.

Wage Issue Clouds Steels.

Lesser declines were shown for General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, General Electric, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Telephone, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, United States Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, and Texas Corporation.

Higher wage expectations clouded the steel, although near capacity operations were being maintained in most centers. Motors were unable to get ahead despite the fact this week's output of new cars was only slightly under that of the week before.

MARKET SLUMP CUTS SALES OF NEW SECURITIES

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—Weakness in the bond market reduced public offerings of new securities during the week ended yesterday to $15,098,750 compared with $84,748,125 in the preceding week. Poor's Publishing company reported today. It was the first week this year that new offerings fell below the corresponding period a year ago.

Board of Trade Balloting
Challenged; New Vote Set

After a protest had been made to directors of the Chicago Board of Trade that an illegal ballot was used yesterday in a vote taken on proposed changes in the exchange's rules, the directors ordered the ballots destroyed and a new vote taken Feb. 24. Members had voted on the question of acceptance of new rules and delivery on futures contracts for rye and the addition of red oats to present deliveries. Members of the board protested that questions on rye and oats should not be included in the same ballot since all members were not equally qualified to vote on the merits of the proposed changes.

Eggs Set New Low Marks in SMA Wrangle

Prices of eggs for immediate and future delivery slumped to new low levels for the year yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange as representatives of the Surplus Marketing Association and traders wrangled over quotations in the wholesale market. Members of the exchange met in special session after the close of the market and voted three changes in the board's rules to facilitate handling of the near record receipts.

The department of agriculture reported that on Feb. 1 egg production was at an all time high mark for the period. While there were fewer hens on the farms, they were laying at a faster rate than ever before. Dealers say the farmers have a great deal of low priced feed on hand and that weather conditions have been very favorable.

S. M. A. Takes Surplus.

As a result "the hens have been laying eggs faster than the people can eat them," one trader said. To keep the farm price of eggs up, the Surplus Marketing Association has been taking surplus offerings of the market for the last three weeks. During this time it has bought approximately 2,425,000 dozens in Chicago.

Confronted with heavy offerings yesterday, the federally backed SMA indicated shortly after the opening of the cash market that the pegs had been reduced overnight.

Dealers scrambled to bring their selling prices down to the new federally dictated levels but when the SMA limited initial purchases to about 37,000 dozens, impatient holders discounted the market an additional 1/2 cent.

Squabble Over Prices.

Heretofore, traders have been permitted to accept what offerings or bids were still posted at the close of a trading session during a five minute period when no new offerings or bids could be made. Some of the offerings that had been posted at the SMA's pegged price early in the session were accepted by the government agency. SMA officials contended that final sales constituted the market for the day and the market should be quoted at the pegged prices.

Dealers claimed sales had been made lower and the government had made its purchases at a time when sales did not represent the true market. For a time the official market reporter refused to list any quotations but later quoted the market at the range between the low and high sales of the day.

Final quotations were: Fresh extra, firsts, 16 1/2 to 17 cents a dozen and firsts at 16 1/2 to 17 cents a dozen, a drop of 1/2 to 1/4 cents a dozen.

At the special session members voted to eliminate the five minute acceptance period altogether. They voted to have the market closed when the final bell sounded.

To take care of the larger receipts the board voted to extend the time limit in which delivery of eggs can be made in an exchange sale. Under the change delivery may be made up to noon of the day following sale while heretofore delivery had to be made before 4 p. m. on the day of purchase.

BRITAIN TO TAKE OVER IMPORTING OF RAW COTTON

LIVERPOOL, England, Feb. 14 (AP).—The British government has "decided to become sole importers of all growths of raw cotton," it was announced officially today on the Liverpool Cotton exchange.

The Liverpool and Manchester cotton associations will work for the government in purchase and ultimate distribution of raw cotton, it was said.

The statement said that "rapid developments are taking place with regard to government control of the cotton industry" and that the questions of "the future market and unfilled contracts" were under consideration.

Used Car Supply Drops,
Chicago Dealers Report

The Chicago Automobile Trade Association yesterday reported that Cook county automobile dealers had a 44.9 days' supply of used cars as of Feb. 1, compared with an all time high of 54 days' supply on Jan. 1 and a 32 days' supply as of Feb. 1, 1940.

U. S. TAX COLLECTIONS IN ILLINOIS CLIMB 82 MILLIONS DURING 1940

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—The treasury reported today that internal revenue collections for the calendar year 1940 totaled $5,862,434,465, a rise of $905,388,427 over 1939 when they were $4,957,046,038.

Collections in Illinois during 1940 totaled $1,927,491, compared with a total of $399,934,504 in 1939. Income tax collections from corporations in 1940 amounted to $116,288,636, compared with $85,619,579 in 1939, and from individuals, $884,452,525 against $75,734,558. Pay roll taxes amounted to $87,666,892 in 1940 against $78,217,911 in 1939, and miscellaneous tax collections rose to $189,557,437 in 1940 from $159,372,453 in 1939.

Total collections in other nearby states for 1940 and 1939 were: Indiana, $1,474,146,170 and $1,144,066,527; Iowa, $2,765,593 and $2,837,157; Michigan, $3,222,803,240 and $2,444,979,013; Ohio, $3,321,121,543 and $2,747,700,690; and Wisconsin, $98,036,586 and $81,128,927.

REPORT CANADA
PLANS A WHEAT
PROCESSING TAX

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 14.—A processing tax on wheat milled into flour which would raise the cost of bread 1 cent a loaf through Canada is expected to be the major departure in the wheat policy shortly to be announced to parliament.

As finally agreed upon by the cabinet, the wheat policy, which will be announced in addition to an increased processing tax, is reported to include:

1. Limitation of government wheat purchases to the quantity the wheat board believes it can sell during the year.

2. Education pressure for crop reduction but no compulsory legislation to reduce acreage.

3. Extension of storage facilities.

Under this policy the farmer would have to take the gamble on whether a market would be found for wheat raised over and above Canada's needs. The wheat board and the limited export markets still existing.

SEARS MAKES ITS
KANSAS CITY UNIT
MAILING CENTER

Because of an increasing volume of business, Sears, Roebuck & Co. has established a new regional office in its mail order distribution of women's wearing apparel, Thomas J. Carney, president, announced last night.

Instead of distributing nearly all of this type of goods directly from New York City, the company has set up another distribution center at its Kansas City, Mo., mail order house. The new region embraces states in the Mississippi and Missouri valleys, extending from the western boundary of Indiana to the Rocky mountains.

Carney said that New York would continue to be the point of distribution for the company's women's apparel business for states east of Indiana. The Pacific coast states are served from the company's mail order house in Los Angeles, Cal.

Pinch in Metal Supply Grows in Arms Rush

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—The first real pinch in fundamental supplies for America's rearmament drive appears to be developing in the metals field, business observers said today.

When the defense commission at Washington, D. C., yesterday ordered makers of magnesium, lightest of widely used metals, to devote their full output to armament needs, it threw the spotlight on whole complex of metal problems which have been creeping up with increasing frequency lately, these sources said.

Most of these metal supply situations, trade quarters said, are in the nature of "squeeze" rather than full sized shortages. That is, they appear so far to be temporary failures of particular kinds of metal production facilities to keep up with suddenly expanded demand. In many cases the plants necessary to catch up are already planned or under way.

Zinc One of Bottlenecks.

Trade quarters cite zinc, a prime ingredient of brass, as one of these bottlenecks. Shellmakers in some cases have not expanded output as much as they otherwise would have because brass producers were slowed down for lack of zinc.

Various steps, metal men say, already are being taken to meet the lack of zinc. New plants are being rushed to production, the industry has conferred with government representatives on the possibility of curtailing nondefense use, and one important shell manufacturer is said to have renewed the usual projectile form so as to save 20 per cent of the brass now used.

Aluminum, most important structural element of planes, there has been much dispute as to whether existing supplies are adequate. Metal men say there has been definite "tightness" in deliveries of some fabricating aluminum forms, such as specialized castings. On the other hand there appears no definite agreement as to whether facilities for producing virgin aluminum are adequate.

Alarm in Far East, Home of Tin.

With war clouds loom in the far east, where the Dutch and British possessions are the home of tin, and with reports of a withdrawal of Dutch shipping from some important Pacific trade routes, there have been nervous flutterings in the market for that metal.

Friday and Tuesday saw sharp jumps in the prices in New York dealings, and at Singapore, center of the tin trade in the orient, and in London business was brisk at higher prices.

Metal men say a disturbance in the tin producing lands of the east would probably have little effect on the supply situation here for at time. Large users are reported to have about a year's requirements on hand in this country and the federal government's Metals Reserve corporation holds about six months' normal requirements.

Tin is available in considerable quantities in Bolivia, but the United States has no important smelting capacity to handle the South American ore.

Approve Plan to Dissolve
Aviation & Transportation

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 14 (Special).—The plan for transfer of assets of Aviation and Transportation corporation to the Aviation corporation was approved at a meeting of stockholders of the former corporation here today. The meeting was adjourned until Feb. 24 at which time it is proposed to dissolve the Aviation and Transportation corporation.

SEC Provides for Partial Filing by Investing Firms

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission adopted today a rule which will permit investment companies to file a description of their fundamental policies pending full registration under the law. Such a statement, the SEC said, will be required as part of the detailed registration to be filed later.

Use Plastics to Conserve
Metals, Stettinius Asks

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (Special).—All manufacturers today were urged by E. R. Stettinius Jr., director of priorities for the office of production management, to give immediate attention to the development of plastics to conserve the supply of certain metals "critically needed" in defense industries.

ARMS EXPORTS TO BRITAIN IN '40 TOP 176 MILLION

Planes Biggest Item at $82,293,416.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—Great Britain took the largest share of American exports of arms, ammunition and other military supplies in 1940, a state department report on arms, munitions and actual exports showed today.

Out of $873,078,268 in export licenses issued by the state department last year, Great Britain got a total of $675,470,249. However, actual exports did not reach that figure, since export licenses represented largely future deliveries. Arms exports during the year were valued at $328,883,814, of which Great Britain got $176,391,213 worth.

Warplanes were the biggest military item imported by Britain, representing $82,293,416 out of the $176,391,213 of arms received from the United States. Airplane engines ranked second, totaling $27,439,839. The third biggest item was ammunition, amounting to $19,154,143.

Buy Machine Guns.

Licenses issued to Britain in 1940 included $332,506,253 in warplanes, $156,375,111 in airplane engines, and $68,197,762 in ammunition for rifles and machine guns.

In December total arms licenses issued were $136,471,756, of which Britain took $97,903,296, and actual exports totaled $32,752,470, of which Britain got $23,290,470, including nearly 14 millions in warplanes. Including dominions, however, the British empire took about 110 million dollars worth of the 136 millions in licenses issued in December. Licenses for Australia totaled $81,433; Canada, $2,157,766; India, $41,692; New Zealand, $250,146, and South Africa, $10,315,760.

In addition, the Gold Coast, British territory on the west coast of Africa, where axis operations are feared, appeared heavily for the first time in the monthly report, with licenses valued at $23,240,140, all for military aircraft. The Straits Settlements, another potential war spot, took licenses for $10,250,751, nearly all for warplanes.

Greece Gets Licenses.

The Netherlands Indies took licenses for arms worth $4,902,026, principally for aircraft, and Greece got licenses for $733,500, all for ammunition. China obtained licenses worth only $34,100.

Actual exports for some of the countries for the month of December and the year, in that order, were as follows:

Australia, $1,733,674 and $11,644,293; Canada, $2,783,536 and $22,663,217; India, $1,555,433 and $244,901; New Zealand, $45,998 and $265,799; and South Africa, $615,882 and $3,545,260.

Exports to China were valued at $110,071 in December and $8,422,125 during the year, and to the Netherlands Indies at $1,546,609 and $7,338,869.

Russia Gets Plane Engines.

As previously disclosed, $155,308 worth of American airplane engines went to Russia in 1940, despite the "moral embargo" which the Roosevelt administration had placed on aeronautical exports to Russia as a result of the soviet bombing of Finnish civilians. The administration last month removed this embargo as a friendly gesture to the soviet, arousing protests from the British and in congress that soviet imports aided Germany and Italy.

Soviet shipments in 1940 far exceeded licenses received. The shipments were covered by licenses issued in prior years. No exports or licenses were recorded for Russia in December of the year, and to the Green got licenses for $132,820 in airplane engines, $25,720 in high explosives, and $18,340 for ammunition.

Meantime, official quarters disclosed that military plane production in United States plants rose to 1,002 units in January, doubling the output of the 1940 month. It was said that 60 per cent of the planes were combat ships of various types, and the rest trainers. The January production was more than a 20 per cent increase over the December figure of 799.

People and Events

Harry L. Goodbar, assistant sales manager of Butler Brothers, has been named sales manager, succeeding Robert H. Stoddard, who is being transferred to St. Louis to become a sales manager and assistant general manager of the company's branch there. T. E. Skinner, district sales manager, has been appointed assistant sales manager and G. J. Boersma is the new district sales manager.

A dinner in honor of George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, who is retiring, will be given in the Palmer House Feb. 26.

Harold R. Petersen has been appointed resident manager of the La Salle hotel.

E. G. Erickson of Chicago was re-elected vice president of the Association of Refrigerated Warehouses, an affiliate of the American Warehousemen's association, at the close of the parent organization's 50th anniversary convention yesterday in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Libby Offering Group Ended as Stocks Dip

With the stock market dropping steadily, Glore, Forgan & Co. announced last night that the selling group which offered the 3,018,639 shares of Libby, McNeill & Libby stock at 6 1/2 had been terminated at the close of business and all price restrictions removed. The stock closed at 6 1/2, off 1/2 point, on the New York and Chicago exchanges.

Officials reported that only the 1,518,639 shares covered by the underwriting contract had been sold. They said also that the option under which Swift & Co. agreed to sell to the bankers until Feb. 27 the remaining 1,500,000 shares will not be exercised unless the market improves materially. Dissolution of the account permits the dealers to sell the stock at market rather than at offering price.

May Be Revived Later.

Revival of the deal later for the sale of the rest of the stock by a similar underwriting group is a possibility, officials said, since the contract provides that Swift & Co. will not dispose of the shares for six months without consent or unless a price at least 50 cents above the offering price is received.

The 3,018,639 shares represented slightly more than 83 per cent of the outstanding stock. The 3,018,639 shares were held by Swift & Co., which was required to divest itself of its ownership of Libby in compliance with the "packer consent decree."

In case the market does not improve enough to permit the placing of the 1,500,000 shares on sale, it is understood that they might be distributed to Swift stockholders.

Chicago Market Weak.

Accumulating fears of the far eastern and Balkan war situations were blamed for a marked slump in share prices on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Volume reached 43,000 shares, the largest since Dec. 30. Of the 122 active issues, 93 declined, 4 advanced, and 25 were unchanged. Trading was started in one new issue, Northwest Airlines.

Moving against the trend, Midland United preferred, the volume leader, sold 1/4, up 1/2 point, in transfer of 3,650 shares.

PAY OF WILSON
OFFICIALS TOLD
IN PROXY LETTER

A proxy statement of Wilson & Co., Inc., a Chicago meatpacking company, issued yesterday disclosed that remuneration of $77,619 was paid to Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the board, and $3,519 to Edward Foss Wilson, president, during the company's fiscal year ended Oct. 26.

Securities of the company held by the chairman as of Nov. 4 were listed at 1,296 shares of preferred stock, 15,498 shares of common stock and $15,000 par value convertible 3 1/2 per cent bonds. The president's holdings were given as 1,071 shares of preferred stock, 10,239 shares of common stock, $15,000 par value first mortgage 20 year 4 per cent bonds and $25,000 par value convertible 3 1/2 per cent bonds. The statement called attention to the annual working capital, which was held here on Feb. 18.

Both the Wilsons, J. P. Harding and J. M. Hopkins are nominees for reelection to the board of directors.

MILWAUKEE ROAD
INTEREST PLEA
SET FOR MARCH 5

Hearing on the petition of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company for force trustees of the company to make interest payments from cash accumulated over normal working capital, was continued yesterday until March 5, pending the return of Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe, who is on a vacation. Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward set March 3 as the last day on which interested parties may file answers to the petition.

Judge Woodward refused any comment on the request of attorneys for the railroad to file a petition asking an injunction against the Interstate Commerce commission conducting a referendum of the company's creditors on the reorganization plan. The attorneys said that the vote be held until the United States Circuit Court of Appeals has passed on the reorganization plan.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—Supervision of defense buying policy was centralized today under Donald M. Nelson, director of purchases, in a revision of procedure approved by the office of production management.

Actual buying will continue to be done by the army and navy, but Nelson was given authority to pass on all contracts over $

TIN FUTURES SET NEW 1941 PEAK: ZINC, WOOL GAUGE

Rubber and Coffee Lose Part of Recent Rise.

Tin futures jumped as much as 1/2 cent a pound to a new 1941 high in May contracts yesterday as profit taking and weakness in securities left other commodity futures unsettled. Copper, zinc, hides, domestic sugar, and wool tops advanced moderate gains, but rubber and Santos coffee lost part of Thursday's brisk advances and cocoa and cottonseed oil also were lower. Silk was irregular.

The final price for tin was 62.50 to 63.00 cent a pound ahead at 50.00 cents in the May position. The cash price added 1/2 cent at 51.12 1/2 cents.

Copper, Zinc Edge Ahead. Copper was steady and ended unchanged to 0.03 cent higher at 11.49 cents a pound in May futures, while zinc was unchanged to 0.05 cent higher at 9.25 cents in the delivery.

Santos coffee faltered after the previous day's peak prices and dipped 0.01 to 0.04 cent a pound to 7.94 cents in the May contracts. Profit taking and selling pressure depressed rubber futures 0.17 to 0.23 cent, May finishing at 20.40 cents a pound. The cash price lost 1/4 cent at 20.62 cents.

Wool Even to 0.05 Cent Up. Although wool tops failed to extend Thursday's sharp advance, prices were maintained and, in fact, unchanged to 0.5 cent higher at $12.60 a pound bid in May futures. The cash bid was 0.8 cent down from the previous sale price at $12.74. Hides continued to show strength and picked up 0.11 to 0.20 cent at 12.50 cents a pound in the June position.

STOCK AND BOND REGISTRATIONS

RISE IN QUARTER

Defense Activity Causes Late 1940 Upsurge.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP)—A surge in financing activity during the final quarter raised the dollar volume of securities registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission in 1940 to $2,124,429,000, an increase of $309,383,000 over 1939.

Reporting this today, the commission noted that it was the first time since 1936 that the aggregate of securities registered exceeded that of the preceding year. The number of issues registered declined, however, to 470, from 482 in 1939.

Quarter Total 772 Million. Registrations for the last quarter totaled $772,000,000, an increase of $460,000,000 over the total for the final three months of 1939, and presumably reflecting activity resulting from the national defense program. Second and third quarter registrations in 1940 lagged behind the comparable 1939 periods.

An analysis of the year's registrations prepared by the SEC research and statistics section showed: The amount of net proceeds in money intended for plant expansion or improvements rather than for refunding—totaling $299,936,000 for 1940—was 13.5 percent of the total net proceeds, compared with 12.0 percent, or 13.8 percent, in 1939.

Bulk in Form of Stocks. Stocks accounted for $160,953,000 or 61.9 percent of the new money funds. Utility companies and government registered the largest amount, $776,200,000. Manufacturing issues amounted to $268,504,000.

Fixed interest bearing securities continued to predominate, accounting for 78.2 percent of the total. The amount of securities handled thru underwriters was 88.3 percent of the total, compared with 81.9 percent in the preceding year.

Auto Production for Week Nearly Stated at 127,500

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 14 (AP)—Ward's this week's production of passenger cars and trucks totaled 127,500 units, compared with 127,675 last week, and $6,500 in the corresponding week a year ago. The trade publication said that the $45,135,000 in defense contracts closed with plants of the automobile industry during the last week included almost $17,000,000 for construction and machinery to equip new manufacturing operations.

Investors' Guide

Answers to questions about investment opportunities and insurance written for the Investors' Guide. Includes stamps, answers of public interest are reprinted. Please do not ask for information on more than one company in each letter. Answers to inquiries are based on information which the publisher has received, fair, and unprejudiced, but the publisher assumes no responsibility therefor.

SATURDAY, FEB. 15, 1941.

SULPHUR AS A HEDGE.

The other night we were talking about possible hedges against inflation and some one mentioned sulphur. The question was: What is the value of the stock as a hedge? Please give me some details of the company's operations.—R. C. B.

Answer: Although copper stocks in soundly situated companies which own or control their raw material sources have been recommended by investment analysts as inflation hedges, there is no reliable test of the future ability of any stock to withstand a severe inflationary spiral.

Investors' Guide does not suggest an inflation hedge, because no investment formula provides complete or certain protection against inflation. Freepress Sulphur, with its main office in New York City, is the second largest producer of sulphur in the United States. It mines the chemical from brimstone deposits near Freeport, Tex., and Grand Ecaille, La., leased from several oil companies.

The sulphur is utilized in various forms in the fertilizer, rayon, film, paint, plastic, paper, rubber, and textile industries. It is also used in making explosives.

Thru the Cuban-American Management corporation, a subsidiary, Freepress Sulphur is also engaged in mining a metal vital in hardening steel. Manganese is being stored by the government for defense requirements. Earnings of Freepress Sulphur reflected in an advance in the company's profit to the highest point in recent years follows:

	1937	1938	1939	1940
Net income, per share, per share	$2.00	$2.00	$2.00	$2.00
Dividends, per share, per share	$1.00	$1.00	$1.00	$1.00
Retained earnings, per share, per share	$1.00	$1.00	$1.00	$1.00
Capitalization of the company, common stock and $500,000 in funded debt. Dividends have been paid on the stock each year since 1929. A quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the stock will be made March 3 to holders of record Feb. 14.

SURTAX RATES.

What are the new surtax rates which apply to 1940 incomes?—F. W.

Answer: Copies of the revised surtax rate table used in computing 1940 income taxes may be obtained by sending a stamped, addressed envelope to the Investors' Guide.
